WHY DIDN'T PEARY BRING 2 ESKIMOS HERE, COOK ASKS

Replies to "Indictment" by Declaring He Will Place Natives Before Inquirers.

FRAUD IS IMPLIED

Document Hints That Doctor Planned Gigantic Fraud in Arctic Trip.

PEARY ESTIMATE OF ESKIMOS AS GEOGRAPHERS

CLARK'S Eskimos, like mine, possessed with the crazy idea that they had drifted westward and were coming down "the back side of Grant Land," as they expressed it, had insisted on turning east, and were going directly away from the ship. My two men found them in what would have been their last camp.

* * *

The position of the sun and the movements of the stars are the Eskimos' gauges for time and location. Less observant than were the Arab shepherds, they have not noticed that one star is the center about which all the others move, nor have they set apart the planets, which to them are simply large stars. Probably this is due to the fact that the movements of the stars can be observed during only three months of the year.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 13.—"I can only say that the actual human witnesses of my journey to the pole will themselves be able to disprove the distorted declarations put into their mouths in the statement issued by Commander Peary," said Dr. Frederick Cook, who arrived here today, in speaking of the Peary "indictment."

"There could not be better testimony than that given by the men themselves before an unbiased body of inquirers. Commander Peary evidently regards their evidence as of the most profound importance, and so do I. It seems to me that he might have brought them along with him if he was so confident that they would corroborate his story.

"He, however, chose not to do so. I will, therefore, send for them as soon as possible, and place them at the disposal of any scientific or other body that may desire to examine them, with the aid of any competent interpreters whom the examining body may appoint."

Will Await Witnesses.

Asked whether he would make a direct reply to Peary's statement, Cook said:

"There is nothing to add to what has been said. I do not intend to enter a newspaper controversy with anyone. I shall depend upon the witnesses who have already been brought into the case, and prove my case by them."

Dr. Cook was given a public reception on the floor of the Chamber of Commerce at noon.

Cook's statement here was supplementary to the one which he made to an Associated Press representative last night in Cleveland, where the Peary "indictment" was first shown to him. There his first comment was "It is the same old story."

Eskimos Kept Promise.

"I have replied to the points raised a dozen times," he continued. "The map published by Commander Peary in itself indicates that the Eskimos have respected their promise made to me, that they would not give any information to Peary or his men.

"The Eskimos were instructed not to tell Mr. Peary, or any of his party, of our trip over the polar sea. They were told to say we had been far north. They have kept their word.

"Mr. Whitney has said that during the cross-examination conducted by Commander Peary and others of his expedition, the Eskimos did not understand the questions put to them or the map which was laid before them. Their replies to the questions have been twisted to suit a perverted interest.

"I will not enter into any argument about the matter, but I will bring the Eskimos to New York at my own expense, and they will prove, as did Mr. Whitney, all I have claimed."

Dr. Cook would not consent to go over the details contained in Mr. Peary's statement any further than this.

"The Eskimos," he said, "are only too willing to say something that they think will please their questioners.

"I fully expected something of the kind. The document looks formidable over so many signatures and probably will appear so to the public. There is however, nothing in it, as it is based upon the distorted and evasive replies of persons who were told not to give any details.

"Rasmussen, who will be here shortly, has seen the Eskimos and knows the real story. They did not try to deceive

"Wonder why they called him back?"

"Well, as nearly as I can make out, it's a new wrinkle entirely different from the Roosevelt Ananias policy. They sent him back to the bench because he told the truth."

"He says the State Department is talking through its Knox."

AUTHOR OF "PETER PAN" GETS DIVORCE; FRIENDS SAY HE WILL WED PAULINE CHASE

James M. Barrie's Wife Does Not Contest Decree; Young Writer Is Named.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—James M. Barrie, the novelist and playwright, today obtained a divorce from his wife on the grounds of the latter's misconduct with Gilbert Cannan, a young author.

The suit was not defended. Mrs. Barrie was formerly Mary Ansell, an actress.

Barrie himself took the witness stand and related the circumstances leading up to the action. The witness said that in 1908 he had permitted the co-respondent the use of a cottage which he owned at Farnham. It was at this cottage that the alleged misconduct took place.

The plaintiff said the matter first came to his ears from the servants and that when the accusations were made known to his wife she admitted their truth.

Cannan is several years younger than Mrs. Barrie. The general belief is that both parties were willing that a divorce be granted.

In literary and dramatic circles it is believed that Barrie will marry Pauline Chase, the American actress who created the role of Peter Pan in England. Miss Chase attained prominence in America as the Pajama Girl in "The Liberty Belles."

GOVERNOR PARDONS WRONG MAN, CANNOT REVOKE IT

Similarity of Names Frees One Convict While Hero Stays in Prison.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 13.—Because of a similarity in names Gov. Noel has pardoned one convict when he really meant to pardon another. Recently a convict of the name of Walton mounted a horse and by a daring ride prevented the escape of a large number of prisoners. Gov. Noel was informed of his service to the State and slated him for a pardon. It has just been discovered that when Gov. Noel gave the reward Albert Walton got it.

The pardon cannot be revoked as the law specifically prohibits such.

Walton, the hero, still wears stripes.

EDITOR FIGHTS DUEL IN OFFICE; BOTH MEN HURT

Newspaper Man May Lose His Arm and Opponent Lies Near Death.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Oct. 13.—In a pistol duel fought between Editor John P. Pulliam and John Robards, a Confederate veteran, in Pulliam's office last night, Robards was fatally injured and Pulliam may have to have his arm amputated as the result of a bullet that splintered the bone.

Robards is said to have entered the office of the Harrodsburg Herald and opened fire on Pulliam, who returned the fire. A trivial quarrel was the cause of the affray.

BOY'S POCKETS, MAGPIE'S NEST

Counterfeit Money, Good Bills, Knives and Razors in Outfit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Although only 10 years of age, Albert Glover was arrested here last night for attempting to pass a counterfeit half dollar and when searched at the station house was found to have on his person two razors, six pocket knives, $7 in bills and some change. The boy, who is from Alexandria, Va., said he found the things there.

The police think the boy may be the tool of a band of counterfeiters.

FORBES FLYING OVER VIRGINIA; WINS LAHM CUP

Dispatches Indicate the "New York" Has Already Traveled Over 600 Miles.

MAKES MILE A MINUTE

Swift Air Currents Carry Air Craft From Hinton, W. Va., to Lynchburg.

A big balloon resembling the New York, in which A. Holland Forbes and Max Fleischmann sailed from the Rutger street gas plant at 5:33 p. m. Tuesday in an effort to lift the Lahm cup, was reported sailing over Lynchburg, Va., 620 miles from St. Louis, at a great rate of speed at 11 a. m. Wednesday, a dispatch to the Post-Dispatch states. If the balloon is the New York, it made the journey through the night and morning in a gale that carried it at 36 miles an hour.

An Associated Press dispatch states that the balloon was signted at Hinton, W. Va., 500 miles from St. Louis, at 9 a. m. Wednesday. To get to Lynchburg in the time reported in the later dispatch the balloon must have reached a speed of a mile a minute.

The aeronauts are after the Lahm Cup record of 474 miles, held by Capt. De Forest Chandler, and the record of 570 miles made by Tony Von Phul in the balloon race last week. On the latter record Von Phul claims the cup, though he did not register for it in advance as required.

A dispatch was received by the Post-Dispatch Wednesday morning, stating that a balloon had been seen over Leavenworth, Kan., traveling in a northeasterly direction. The New York could not have been in both Kansas and Virginia, and, as no other balloon has been reported as ascending, the dispatches from such widely different points are puzzling.

Accident at Outset.

The start of Forbes' trip was thrilling. The steady wind from the west caused a vortex of eddies in the gas yard. As the balloon rose it made for the roof of the gas house, skirting the south end of the yard. Forbes threw out the sand of one bag, and then reached down in the basket for another. As he did so, the side and bottom of the basket struck the corrugated steel roof with a crash. There was a cloud of dust, and after a lurch the balloon rose rapidly with the basket swinging from side to side. It gathered speed as the full force of the wind struck it and sailed away in the gathering dusk. The collision with the roof had torn away one bag of sand.

Four St. Louis licensed pilots—Lambert, Honeywell, Von Phul and Bemis—were present at the start. Forbes and Fleischmann expressed themselves as surprised and pleased that they should get such assistance and encouragement from rival pilots. The four St. Louisans talked freely of the wind currents and the outcome of the trip. Lambert said Wednesday that if Forbes breaks the record made by Von Phul in the Centennial race last week, one of the four St. Louis pilots would start out immediately to break his record. It has not yet been decided which one will go out if Forbes makes the distance, but Von Phul is desirous of going.

In the Centennial balloon race Von Phul in the St. Louis III traveled 550 miles and Honeywell covered a distance of 460 miles. The Lahm cup record is 474 miles.

Forbes was evidently out to lift the cup. He took along a thorough equipment for the journey, but he told a Post-Dispatch reporter there was not a thing in the basket that he was not prepared to throw away as ballast, in the event that he could not stay up longer otherwise.

His equipment was lighter than that of the aeronauts who sailed in the Centennial race. His provisions were as frugal as that of a soldier on a forced march, and he carried no heavy fur coats.

St. Louis balloon enthusiasts consider the trips of Forbes and Fleischmann an important opening of the series of attempts that will be made this week and next to lift the Lahm cup and establish a new long-distance American record for ballooning. They say this series of balloon voyages will convince the country that St. Louis is its aeronautic center.

Forbes has an international reputation as an amateur balloonist. He is a millionaire publisher of New York, and ballooning has been his favorite pastime. He is acting president of the Aero Club of America in the absence of Cortlandt Field Bishop, who is in Europe. Forbes laughingly said before the start:

"All I have to do to register for the Lahm Cup is to hand myself a dollar."

Fleischmann is a brother of Julius Fleischmann, former Mayor of Cincinnati, and is also rated as a millionaire. The men presented a picturesque appearance in the basket, with their raincoats of foreign make and cut and their Scotch golfing caps.

Snow Hampers Buffalo Street Cars.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Snow began falling here early today and at 9 o'clock this morning the Weather Bureau reported that three inches had fallen. It has seriously interfered with telegraph and telephone service and also with the street car service.

ALEX R. MEIER IS ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Information Against Former Officer of China and Glassware Firm.

Alex R. Meier, secretary of the defunct Meier China and Glassware Co., is charged in an information issued Wednesday with having embezzled $12,500 from that company.

Meier is now under a $20,000 bond to appear before Walter D. Coles, referee in bankruptcy, to explain the apparent sequestering of this amount from the company's assets. He was arrested Sept. 30, and was made to give bond to assure the referee that he would not leave the city until he had made the required explanation. Had he not given the bond he would have been sent to jail.

Meier is a son of E. F. W. Meier, former President of the City Council. He has retained Chester H. Krum as his counsel. After his arrest on the Federal writ he treated his detention as a joke, and said he would have no difficulty in explaining that none of the assets of the bankrupt company had been sequestered.

The information issued Wednesday is indorsed with the name of Jacob Stocke Jr. as prosecuting witness. Stocke is an officer of the Progress Press Brick Co.

Failed to Account.

It is charged in the information that Meier failed to account for money which he received from Stocke in June, 1908.

Stocke told the Circuit Attorney's office that he had a bill of $3500 against the china company.

In April, 1908, the company's store was destroyed by fire, and June 8, 1908, according to information, Meier, acting for the company, collected $28,000 insurance. On the same day he gave Stocke a check for $16,000 in payment of the bill of $3500. In return, Stocke alleges, he gave Meier $12,500 in cash.

The accusation is that Meier never turned over this amount to his company, which later went into bankruptcy.

Referee Coles failed to find this $12,500 in the company's assets.

Traced to Honolulu.

In order that he might be brought in to make an explanation of the apparen discrepancy, Meier was traced to Honolulu, Hawaii, by Process Server Andrew Watson.

He returned to St. Louis two weeks ago, and the papers were served on him while he was dining at Faust's restaurant.

MAYOR WOODS OF WELLSTON IS HAVING AIRSHIP BUILT

Declares Dirigible Will Be Delivered April 15 and He Will Fly To St. Louis.

Mayor Roy C. Woods of Wellston, who was one of the visiting mayors during Centennial week, seeing all the city sights, including his own law office in the Carleton Building, under official escort, was shown the dirigible balloons at Forest Park and became so enthusiastic that he told a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday he has ordered a dirigible built for himself.

"The builders are already at work on my airship," said Mayor Woods, "and it is to be delivered to me by April 15. I expect then to fly over Wellston, and may cross the imaginary line and put it over St. Louis. I can see more from a balloon than from an auto, and that's why I want to sail in the air."

BENCH SHOW IN COURT; BULL PUP WINS LITIGATION

Owner Proves to Justice Pfeffle That Bob Is Not a Dachshund.

"Bob," son of several battles and father of more, being a bull pup, proved his parentage in the court of Justice Henry Pfeffle at 2027 South Broadway, Wednesday.

Edward Bresch of 901 Chouteau avenue, assisted Bob in proving his pedigree. Henry Altvater of 908 South Tenth street had disputed it; he had cast aspersions upon the noble paternity of the pup; he had presumed to asseverate that Bob was not a bull pup, but a dachshund.

A negro boy picked Bob up on the street and bore him to Altvater, whose dachshund mother dog had a litter of five puppies six months ago.

"Looks like your pup," said the boy.

"Sure, he's my pup," said Altvater.

Bench Show in Court.

Bresch got possession of the pup on a writ of replevin and he came into court to show that Bob was the son of two other brindle bulldogs—for Bob is brindle—which he owns. The elder brindle bulls increased their families by four half a year ago.

Attorney Conrad Paelen, counsel for Bresch, brought into court Bob and his alleged parents. Attorney Joseph Williams, for Altvater, produced the alleged mother of Bob, a daschund belonging to his client.

At the right hand of the Court, in leash, sat the dachshund claimant for Bob. At the other hand sat Bob and his two bulldog progenitors, or alleged progenitors, the maternal claimant licking Bob's ears affectionately.

When the witnesses began giving evidences, all the dogs began to bark. Bob began to howl when Altvater testified.

Bow Legs as Proof.

The Court carefully inspected the quartet of canines.

"This pup," he announced, "has bow legs."

"Then, Your Honor," insisted Attorney Williams, "he must be the son of this dachshund, for it is known of all men that dachshunds have bow legs."

"I object," Your Honor," interposed Attorney Paelen. "It is true that all dachshunds have bow legs, but it is true also that all bulldogs have bow legs. But you will observe that this dachshund, like all dogs of her breed, is so extenuated that she had to bend herself in turning around the front seat, while this bulldog pup, Bob, is short and pudgy, like all bulldogs."

"But you will observe, Your Honor," said Williams, "that this dachshund pup is spotted like this dachshund mother."

"Where are the grandparents of this pup?" demanded the Court. "If we could see the grandparents we could decide this case beyond peradventure of a doubt."

Tells of Grandparents.

"I used to own the grandparents," testified Bresch, "but they ran away. Both were bulls."

The Court ruled that the brown spots on the dachshund were not brindle, whereas all the markings on Bob showed that he was descended from brindle ancestry.

"Not only on markings," said the Court, "but on the length of legs and shortness of body, this undoubtedly is a bull pup as distinguished from a dachshund."

Bob went away with his parents, and they yelped joyfully over their restored offspring.

BANKER SHORT 16 YEARS WAS ALSO PREACHER

Feared That Shock of Exposure Will Be Fatal for Wisconsin Financier.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINERAL POINT, Wis., Oct. 13.—Philip Allen, vice-president of the wrecked First National Bank of this place, has been short for 16 years, instead of a few months, as was supposed immediately after the condition of the bank became known through the institution being closed.

Allen has served as an ordained Methodist minister here, is Worthy Chief Templar of the Wisconsin Good Templars and Grand Worthy Chief Templar of the World.

He is said to be in a critical condition at his home, but it is denied that he attempted suicide. Since the revelation of the fact that his shortage extends over so long a period it is now believed that the prolonged strain so weakened him that the shock of exposure may prove fatal.

United States District Attorney Gordon will arrive today and will determine after he gets here what course the Federal authorities will pursue.

It is not regarded here as at all likely that the bank ever will reopen. The shortage is about $200,000, and all that can be raised by an assessment against the stockholders and sale of securities will not exceed $225,000, just about enough to pay the depositors.

Besides Vice-President Allen, the officers of the bank are: President, Calvert Spensley and Cashier Henry Hanscom. The notice that the bank was closed was posted at 6 p. m. Monday, and deposits were accepted at 4 p. m. It is not known what the attitude of the authorities will be with regard to that fact.

MASHER FINED $500 FOR ANNOYING GIRL ON STREET

Clyde Brooks Admitted Following Miss Stone, Said He Thought He Knew Her.

On the complaint of Miss Dollie Stone of 112 Loughborough avenue, a man who gave his name as Clyde Brooks and his address at 2436 Franklin avenue, was fined $500 in the Clark Avenue Police Court Wednesday on a charge of mashing. There is no Clyde Brooks in the city directory and no 2400 block on Franklin avenue.

The defendant, who is 38 years old, testified that he is in the elevator manufacturing business on Commercial street.

Miss Stone testified that the man accosted her at Eighth street and Franklin avenue at 10 a. m. Tuesday He followed her to Broadway and Spruce street, where she called a policeman and had him arrested.

"It is all a mistake," said the defendant. I thought I knew the young woman." He admitted following her

WOODEN LAKE STEAMER RUNS ON REEF AND CATCHES FIRE

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 13.—At the office of the A. M. Bradley Co. here it is announced that the steamer ashore on Grubb's Reef is the George Stone, a wooden vessel of 3000 tons capacity, commanded by Capt. Howell. How the accident occurred is not known.

The keeper of the Grubb's Reef light, talking over the telephone at noon, says the George Stone is afire and burning rapidly. He does not know what has become of the crew, but thinks they were taken off by a passing steamer this morning.

Cubs and White Sox Game Called Off.

Cold weather again caused the fourth game of the series between the Cubs and White Sox for the city championship to be called off.

PIRATES TAKE BIG LEAD ON DETROIT ON HOMER IN 7TH

PITTSBURG—Battery: Adams and Gibson.

Umpires—O'Loughlin and Johnstone.

By JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

FORBES FIELD, PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 13.

Cold weather chilled the ardor of the Pittsburg fans of the fifth game between the Pirates and Detroit to decide the championship of the world. The immense throng that gathered for Friday's and Saturday's games was missing this time. The tickets had got into the hands of the speculators, and they were trying to sell them for less than cost a half hour before the game began.

There were not enough general admissions sold to fill the bleachers, the seats set aside for the purpose. The great grand stand had been sold out, but at game time there were a few empty seats seen, so the scalpers evidently lost on this affair.

The weather was almost as cold as it was Tuesday in Detroit. The thermometer showed it only 4 degrees above the freezing point, and the fans wore furs and mittens. Many of them who had come without overcoats took woolen blankets from their beds at the hotels and wrapped them about themselves while at the game. It was estimated that only about 20,000 persons were present at the field when the game began.

The Pittsburg team was a slight favorite for this game. Young Adams had been announced as the pitcher, and because of his grand performance in the opening game, the Pirate rooters were laying odds of 6 to 5 on the one game.

Summers was the man for Detroit, and the rooters from that town feared he would not do well this time. Willett had looked much better in the few innings he worked. But Jennings is looking forward to the end, and could see no other way than to use one of these men. The weather was far too cold for "Wild Bill" Donovan. If Summers or Willett should beat the Pirates in this game, Jennings figured he would come back with Mullin on Thursday and try to end the series there. If Summers were beaten in the Wednesday game, he would take a chance on Willett for Thursday, hoping to tie the series again, have Summers strong for the final and deciding game. He figured it would be just as well to lose the series 4 to 2 and 4 to 3, and if the series goes to the seventh game, he wants Mullin to pitch.

Fred Clarke was figuring on Adams going over on Wednesday, then trying to end the series Thursday, in Detroit, with Willis. But if Adams failed to win, he might take a chance on Camnitz for Thursday's game and have Willis strong for the final battle.

The umpiring over in Detroit was unsatisfactory. The Pirates are angered over it, and President Dreyfuss declared that they were getting much the worst of the decisions.

"Wild Bill" Donovan was put off the field Tuesday by Umpire Klem for no other reason than asking Jennings to call Klem's attention to the way Pitcher Leifield stood in the box.

Miller of the Pirates was fined $75 by Klem, because he threw his bat on the ground after the latter had called him out on a doubtful third strike.

Ty Cobb arrived in Pittsburg about 11 o'clock in the morning, for he had traveled by himself around by Buffalo, rather than take a chance that Cleveland police would take him off the train at 3 a. m., when the baseball special passed through that city. He has not settled the little fight he had in a hotel there in September.

FIRST INNING.

DETROIT—D. Jones connected with one of Adams' fast ones and the ball went in a line over Leach's head and into the center-field bleachers. It was a home run and the Detroit rooters got the first howl. Bush drew a base on balls. Manager Clarke and Hans Wagner held a consultation with Adams, but the boy stuck in the box. Cobb waited till the call was three and two, then lifted a long fly to Leach in deep center. On the hit-and-run play, Wagner ran to cover second and Crawford poked a single to left field that sent Bush to third base. Delehanty let the third strike curve over the plate and was called out. Crawford stole second when Gibson made a short throw to the pitcher. Moriarity popped high to Abstein. ONE RUN.

PITTSBURG—Byrne opened with a pretty single over second base. It was a hard stab just out of Bush's reach. Leach laid down a bunt towards first base and beat Summer's throw, Byrne going to second. Clarke sacrificed, Stanage to T. Jones. Wagner got a base on balls. Summers didn't give him a chance to hit. Miller fanned out; after the call was three and two he swung at a fast one at the inside and missed it. Abstein waited carefully and drew a base on balls, forcing Byrne to score. Wilson fanned. ONE RUN.

SECOND INNING.

DETROIT—T. Jones lifted a high fly to Wilson. Stanage struck out, Summers fanned. NO RUNS.

PITTSBURG—Bush made a great stop of Gibson's smash to short, but was in no position to throw to first. Adams sacrificed neatly, Summers to Delehanty, the latter covering the bag. Delehanty dug Byrne's smash out of the earth with one hand and tossed to T. Jones in plenty of time. Gibson went to third on the play. Summers then made a wild pitch that got away from Stanage and rolled back in the grand stand, Gibson trotting home. Leach died on a hard fly to Crawford. ONE RUN.

THIRD INNING.

DETROIT—Davy Jones was an easy out on a fly ball to Leach. Bush struck out, being fooled by Adams' ball on his third strike. Cobb smashed straight into Byrne's hands and Bob shot to Abstein in time. NO RUNS.

PITTSBURB—Clarke drew a base on balls. On the hit-and-run play, Bush ran to cover second and Wagner poked a single through his position, sending Clarke to third. It was a perfect execution of the play. Miller grounded out, Bush to Tom Jones and Clarke scored on the play. It was a slow grounder and there was no chance to get the man at the plate. Wagner went to second on the play. Abstein bounded out, Moriarity to Tom Jones, and Big Honus took third. Wilson grounded out, Bush to T. Jones, ending the inning. ONE RUN.

FOURTH INNING.

DETROIT — Crawford died on a grounded ball, Wagner to Abstein. Delehanty was once more fooled by Adams' sharp breaking curve and fanned. Miller gathered up Moriarity's line smash and threw to Abstein. NO RUNS.

PITTSBURG—Moriarity got Gibson's hard bounder and heaved to Tom Jones. Adams popped an easy foul to Stanage. Byrne lifted a long fly to Davy Jones. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

DETROIT—Tom Jones pulled a terrific smash just inside of third base. It went to left-field fence and was an easy double. Stanage fanned, Adams' fast ball on the inside fooling him. Summers fanned after fouling off two balls. Davy Jones lifted a high long fly to Clarke. NO RUNS.

PITTSBURG—Leach died on a long fly to Davy Jones. Clarke got a single on a slow bounding ball to Tom Jones. Tom slipped and fell in fielding the ball, but he could hardly have gotten the man. Clarke stole second. Stanage's throw was low and got away from Delehanty. Bush got Wagner's bounder close to second base and shot the big Dutchman dead at first. Clarke took third. Miller was an easy out on a ground ball, Moriarity to Tom Jones. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

DETROIT—Bush fanned, his third swing being at a curve ball that hit the ground. Cobb ripped a red-hot grounder past Wagner for a single. Crawford smashed the ball squarely on the nose and it went in a line to left center for two bases, Cobb scoring all the way from first. Delehanty bounded a nasty one to Wagner and the big German made a bad throw to Abstein. The ball got away from the first baseman and rolled in the grand stand. Crawford scored from second on the mistake and Delehanty went to second. This tied the score and set the Detroit rooters in a wild uproar. Moriarity then lifted a high fly to Clarke and Tom Jones fouled out to Abstein, ending the rally. TWO RUNS.

PITTSBURG—Abstein hit to the sky and Bush made the catch. Wilson grounded out to Tom Jones, unassisted. Gibson died on a sharp ground ball, Bush to Tom Jones. NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.

DETROIT—McIntyre, batting for Stanage died on a ground ball to Abstein, unassisted. Summers rolled out to Abstein, unassisted. Davy Jones out, Byrne to Abstein. NO RUNS.

PITTSBURG—Schmidt went in to catch for Detroit. Adams fanned. Byrne drove a single between Moriarity and Bush. Leach singled on a hit and run, Byrne taking third. Clarke drove a home run over Crawford's head, scoring Byrne and Leach ahead of him. This was Clarke's second home run of the series. Wagner was hit by a pitched ball and knocked out for two minutes. He took first. Miller flied to Davy Jones. Wagner stole second on Schmidt's high throw. Then he stole third and when Schmidt threw wild to left field, he scored. Abstein fanned. FOUR RUNS.

"I don't dare to come to St. Louis. My life is in danger. He must be convicted."

The dispatch was the first intimation the State had had of Mrs. Mohrle's whereabouts since she disappeared from St. Louis several weeks ago.

Prosecution Is Outlined.

After the jury was sworn in, Newton, for the prosecution, outlined what he said he expected to prove. He declared that the State would show that Mohrle was unarmed when he was shot, that he had left his pistol at a saloon, that no word passed between Kane and Mohrle and that Kane shot Mohrle down without warning and without being threatened.

The first witness was George Pitts, negro janitor of Courtroom No. 12. Pitts said he was standing in the Four Courts corridor on the morning Mohrle was killed and that he saw Mohrle standing, with his hand against a wall, talking to a man.

Kane stepped up, Pitts said, and shot Mohrle in the back without a word. Mohrle wheeled, the witness said, and Kane shot him again. As Mohrle was falling, Pitts declared, Kane shot him a third time.

Patrolman Behnken of Central District followed Gibbs on the witness stand. The policeman said he was leaving the Court of Criminal Correction on the second floor of the Four Courts when he heard a shot in the hall below. He quickened his pace and as he went downstairs, he said, he heard three or four more shots in rapid succession.

He found Mohrle's body lying on the hall floor and, assisted by a man who was a stranger to him, he carried the body into the nearest courtroom. He said Mohrle lay on his side, as though he had tried to turn over on his back, but lacked the necessary strength.

Sergt. Wade Testifies.

Sergt. Wade Matthews was the third witness. He was in Courtroom No. 11 (that in which Kane is on trial). He heard a shot outside and started to run. Before he reached the door he heard four more shots.

He ran across the street, he said, although he did not explain why, darted through the police patrol stables and into an alley. There he met Detectives Dotsman and Schmidt with Kane. He returned at once to the Four Courts and found Behnken and Sheriff Nolte with Mohrle. An ambulance was called and he (Matthews) and Nolte went with Mohrle in the ambulance.

Matthews said Mohrle died as they crossed the Fourteenth street bridge on the way to the City Hospital. At the hospital Mohrle was pronounced dead after an examination in the ambulance. The body was taken to the Morgue.

Matthews said he searched the clothes and found $7.85, a knife, a watch and a chain. The knife was closed.

Examined the Body.

The sergeant told of examining the wounds on Mohrle's body. He said one was in the head and two on each side of the body, as though the bullets had passed all the way through, making a hole at the point of exit as well as the point of entrance. A fourth "glancing" wound was found on one side of the body.

At 1 p. m. the Court took an hour's recess, Judge Grimm cautioning the jurors not to talk about the trial with anyone nor to read newspapers with an account of the trial. He told the jurors that, should any of them desire to communicate with their families, the deputies would do that for them, as they were forbidden to have direct communication themselves.

From the time they entered the jury box to try Kane on a charge of first-degree murder, the jurors were put under special guard. Night sessions of the court will be held, so that the case may be finished this week.

The jurors will not be permitted to use the telephone or to go anywhere except in charge of a deputy sheriff as escort. The case is finished and a deputy sheriff will always be on guard to see that they are not tampered with.

Members of the "Bottoms Gang" will not be permitted by the police to enter the Four Courts while the trial is in progress. An extra detail of police will be on duty at all sessions of the trial.

It was in the corridor of the Four Courts building that Kane shot and killed Mohrle the day Mohrle was to be tried for killing Constable Sam Young. The police are taking precautions to prevent another tragedy.

Kane's attorneys will try to save him by a plea of self-defense. They will insist that Kane's life had been threatened by Mohrle.

The docket in Judge Grimm's court has been cleared so the trial will not be interrupted. The 12 jurors to try the case were selected from a panel of 47.

MRS. EDITH BOSZ, (Who Won the Suit.)

CONTRACTOR 60, BEATS BURGLAR INVADING HOME

A burglar, who entered the home of Fred Huser, 60 years old, a contractor, living at 2027 Wash street, is nursing a very much battered head, and Huser, who waited in the front hall and hit the burglar on the head with a heavy poker as soon as he entered, is in undisputed possession of a fine skeleton key, which he took from the intruder.

Huser lives with his daughter, Miss Della, downstairs and a married daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Ziegenbein, live upstairs. Huser sleeps in the front room. The outer door has shutters and opens into a hall alongside Huser's room.

At 3:20 a. m. Wednesday Huser heard someone rattling the shutters at the front door. He got up and stepped into the hall. As he did so, the shutters were thrown open and a young man could be seen through the glass inserting a key in the lock.

Sat in Chair to Wait.

Huser picked up a heavy poker with a knob on the end and sat down in a chair to await the entry of the thief. Presently the lock turned and the door opened. The burglar stepped in spryly and looked about. But he did not see the grim contractor, squaring off with the poker.

Huser aimed with precision and struck with force. The blow descended on the top of the burglar's head. The burglar dropped to his knees. Huser hit him again, and the burglar sprawled on the floor.

"I've made a mistake—I've made a mistake," cried the burglar excitedly.

Huser jumped on him, choked him and then, fearing that the intruder might have a weapon in his hand, Huser groped around until he found the man's hand. There was no weapon in it, but there was a key. Huser took the key, rose and put it in his pocket.

PICTURE OF DEAD WOMAN WINS SUIT OF HER DAUGHTER

Convinces Jury She Was Not Adopted Child, as Stepfather Contended.

An old and faded picture of the only woman she ever knew as "mother" won two victories for Mrs. Edith Bosz of 7820 Virginia avenue Tuesday. It convinced a jury, because of the resemblance of the living litigant to the dead woman whose photographic likeness was in evidence, that Mrs. Bosz really was the daughter of Mrs. George H. Zuver and the verdict returned by the jury gives Mrs. Bosz a right to one-third of the $10,000 estate left by Mrs. Zuver.

The principal evidence in refutation of the mute similarity of the two faces was the testimony of Zuver, who told the jury with all the emphasis at his command that he was not Mrs. Bosz' father and that Mrs. Zuver was not her mother. Mrs. Bosz was a foundling he declared, who had been been taken in infancy to be reared by him and his wife.

Zuver has married since the death of the woman Mrs. Bosz claims as "mother," and now lives at 2410 South Broadway. He bought the interest of two children by Mrs Zuver's first marriage and fought in court the contention of Mrs. Bosz that she was entitled to a child's share.

Had Meager Evidence.

Mrs. Bosz went into court meagerly armed with evidence. She had nothing but the old, tenderly cherished photograph, which the jury could hold and examine, and memories of her childhood, which she could tell to the 12 men who sat in judgment. She contended not only for the money involved, but also for the right to remember and revere the dead woman as her own parent.

When she took the witness stand her hair was combed in a fashion of other years—just as Mrs. Zuver's hair was combed the day she had the picture taken. Her lawyers, Frank Hasking and Edward Foristel, told the jurors that they wished them to compare the face of the witness with the face in the picture.

The photograph was passed from one to another. Each examined it carefully and then scrutinized the living face of the young woman in the witness chair.

Zuver took the stand. He said Mrs. Bosz was not his daughter, nor the child of his dead wife. She was taken by them from an orphan asylum when she was three days old, he said. She is 21 now.

Never but once, he said, had he remarked in her presence that she was not his own offspring and that was several years ago when he was displeased because of a trip she made to Chicago. He told her then, he declared, that she was not his daughter and that he wanted nothing more to do with her.

The picture was offered in evidence, Zuver said, was not a photograph of the dead Mrs. Zuver, but of Mrs. Zuver's sister.

He told of saying to several persons outside his family that the girl was not his child and there were witnesses who corroborated that statement.

Gus Kreischelt, a son of Mrs. Zuver by her first marriage, said he never heard either his mother or his stepfather intimate that Mrs. Bosz was not their daughter. He remembered when Mrs. Bosz was born and said he had a clear recollection of going into his mother's room and seeing the baby girl in the bed beside her.

Mrs. Laura Warren of 5073 Arsenal street testified that she knew the Zuvers when Mrs. Bosz was a little child and that Zuver was so fond of her that he wore a watch chain made of her baby hair. She was asked if she were telling the truth. She looked up earnestly at the questioner and replied, "I believe in the Bible."

Says Mother Was Unknown.

Dr. Silverwood, a physician, testified that when Mrs. Bosz was about 20 years old he was called in to treat her. As a guide in studying the child's case he asked Mrs. Zuver for the little girl's family history.

Mrs. Zuver, he said, replied that she could not give it because she did not know who the child's mother was.

The jury was not out long before the verdict affirming that the resemblance of the living face to the pictured face had convinced the jurors in spite of everything.

THOUSANDS BEAT UNITED RAILWAYS ON BIGGEST DAY

According to the official report filed by the United Railways Co. Wednesday, the number of persons carried on street cars during Centennial week was 5,783,015.

From the estimates furnished by the officials of the Terminal Railroad Association 470,580 persons entered St. Louis through Union Station during the week. The East St. Louis & Suburban Railway, which operates the line across the Eads Bridge estimates that 35,000 strangers came over the bridge last week in addition to the regular travel.

It was generally thought that Thursday would be the banner day of the week in the number of persons transported in street cars. On that day the tops and vestibules of the cars were crowded with visitors anxious to reach the aviation grounds.

The railways report shows more people were hauled Tuesday than any other day, the record showing 1,048,236 fares paid. On Thursday the fares collected by the conductors were 932,127.

Thousands of those who rode on the roofs of cars apparently paid no fares. As Tuesday's record shows 65,109 more carried than Thursday, it is believed that if all of the fares had been reached by the conductors—roofs and all—Thursday would have been a banner day.

Spectators who saw the number on the cars Thursday say that more than 65,000 rode to the aviation ground out of reach of the conductor. This was stopped the next day when prospective roof-riders found greasy paint smeared over the roofs of cars.

Saturday was the smallest day of the week, only 703,378 braving the rain and threatening clouds to go to the aviation grounds and visit the downtown festivities. Sunday, the opening day, 706,175 paid fares.

DAUGHTER'S PLEA TO KING FAILS; FERRER IS SHOT

Revolutionist Spurns Sacraments; Faces Firing Squad Without Flinchnig.

GIRL SUPPORTS FAMILY

Doomed Father Learns She Turned Factory Worker and Beseeched Alfonso.

By Associated Press.

BARCELONA, Oct. 13.—Prof. Francesco Ferrer, the Spanish educator and convicted revolutionist, was shot today. The execution was at the Fortress of Montjuich, where the prisoner had been confined since his condemnation by court-martial. The doomed man faced the firing squad and received the volley without flinching. Except for a momentary expression of emotion immediately preceding his death he retained his composure to the last.

Ferrer's attorney, M. Galceran, who had defended the prisoner so loyally as to bring about his own arrest for improperly addressing the Court, has obtained permission for a brief talk with the revolutionist before the latter was led to the ditch where he was to die. To his attorney Ferrer spoke feelingly of the work for which he had sacrificed his life and of the future of his daughter, whose brave attempt to save his life touched the father more deeply, apparently, than any other incident of his trial and conviction.

Daughter Appealed to King.

On Ferrer's arrest his family was left dependent upon this daughter, who at once found employment in a biscuit factory. When it was known that her father had been sentenced to death, the daughter made a personal appeal to King Alfonso, calling upon him in the name of his known generosity and chivalry to spare her father's life.

When these facts were related by Galceran, Ferrer broke down. It was but a passing emotion and presently the undaunted revolutionist was again himself.

Ferrer declined to receive the last sacraments and turned away from the two priests of the Order of Peace and Charity who had been sent by the prison authorities to offer him the final consolation of the church.

When the hour of execution arrived he walked bravely through the prison yard to the ditch in the shadow of the encircling wall. Without a quiver he faced the 12 infantrymen, who at the word of command, fired simultaneously. When the report of the volley had died away Ferrer lay dead upon the ground.

Previous to the execution, precautions had been taken to forestall a possible attempt at rescue by doubling the sentinels upon the walls of the fortress.

With the execution of Francisco Ferrer, the authorities have removed from the affairs of Spain a man long suspected of revolutionary activities and who, because of his education and influence, was deemed of peculiar danger to the state.

The decree of the court-martial was carried out in the face of protests from sympathizers, not only in Spain, but in parts of France and it was said in Paris and Rome these protests were voiced in mass meetings by workmen of Socialistic tendencies.

Arrested for Barcelona Riots.

In these capitals, attacks were attempted upon the Spanish embassies, which, however, were protected by police and soldiery. Many petitions for clemency were addressed to King Alfonso, who also was threatened with death should he not spare Ferrer's life.

Ferrer's attorney declared he did not have a fair trial, as the witnesses were not examined in open court, only their depositions being read.

Ferrer was formerly a director of the Modern School of Barcelona and was repeatedly accused of teaching revolutionary doctrines. In 1906 he was arrested, charged with complicity with Manuel Morales in the attempt upon the life of King Alfonso on the day of the royal marriage. On trial Ferrer was acquitted.

On Sept. 1 he was arrested charged with having incited the rioting in Barcelona last summer. This outbreak, which spread through the Catalonian provinces, was in the nature of a protest against the sending of Spanish troops against the Moors on the Riff Coast and for a time assumed alarming proportions.

KEPT AWAKE 94 HOURS; BAFFLES THIRD DEGREE

Police Finally Give Fowler a Half-Hour Nap and Then Resume.

HE CONFESSES THEFTS

Refuses, However, to Admit That He is Burglar Who Killed Detective Gill.

After he had been kept awake 94 hours by the East St. Louis police, Arthur Fowler, known also as Arthur Creston, was permitted to sleep half an hour Wednesday.

At 3 a. m. Detective Kenley, who had been "sweating" Fowler without intermission for six hours, said to him: "Now you take a nap." Fowler fell back on his cell bench and slept for the first time since 3 a. m. Saturday.

At the end of half an hour Kenley caught Fowler by the shoulders and drew him to a sitting posture and shook him until he awoke. The ordeal of the "third degree" was resumed.

For four days the energies of the East St. Louis police have been devoted to an effort to wring from Fowler a confession that he was the burglar who shot and mortally wounded Chief of Detectives Patrick F. Gill, Sept. 2 last. Gill died a week after the shooting.

So far the net result of the "third degree" inquisition to which Fowler has been subjected is that he has confessed three burglaries and 20 box-car robberies.

Questioned by the Hour.

Hour after hour he sits, sometimes in his cell and sometimes in the office of the Chief of Detectives, while questions are fired at him with such rapidity that the effort of answering them keeps him awake.

"I don't know how long I can stand this," he said Wednesday. "That nap they let me have this morning was the worst torture yet. It was just enough sleep to make me want more. I would rather have been killed than have been awakened when that half hour was up. My heart is weak, and if they keep me awake much longer I will just die sitting here."

Fowler says that his long period of sleeplessness has had a queer psychological effect on him.

"I can hear everything they are saying to me, but I am dreaming all the time. All night while Kenley was questioning me in my cell I could see a feather-bed with soft pillows and a warm blanket. I seemed to be in a nightmare. I was trying to get to that bed, but something was holding me back.

Has Queer Visions.

"When I looked at the long table in the Chief's office yesterday afternoon it suddenly changed into a river bank with soft long grass. I was trying to get there to lie down under a big tree, but I couldn't move."

His lack of sleep has caused Fowler's eyes to take on a glassy stare. His face is sallow and drawn and legs are shaky. He has lost eight pounds since the ordeal began Saturday morning.

Throughout he has denied that he knows anything of the Gill murder.

"If you keep me awake a month I can't tell you anything about that, because I had nothing to do with it," he says to the detectives.

He has confessed to burglaries in the neighborhood where Gill was killed, at Eleventh and Pennsylvania avenues, but he says he was at work as yard clerk for the Illinois Central Railroad the night of the shooting.

The Illinois Central yards are two miles from where Gill was shot.

Detectives have found that the yardmaster's records show that Fowler, known there as Creston, "laid off" at 11 p. m. the night of the murder. Gill was shot at 2 a. m., three hours later.

This is the only circumstance so far developed which seems to give strength to the belief of the police that Fowler knows more about the shooting than he is willing to tell.

Admits He Was Convict.

Fowler admits that he has served two terms in Joliet Penitentiary, one for a burglary and the other for stealing a wagon load of meat from the Chicago stockyards.

He is well educated and he says that he received diplomas from the Chicago High School and from a noted business college.

"I stole to get money to pay doctors' bills," he said. "I was sick nearly all the time and nearly every doctor in East St. Louis has treated me. My salary wasn't sufficient to pay them and I stole to get the money."

Physicians who have examined Fowler since his arrest say that his ailments are imaginary.

Passengers Reported Safe.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—It was said at the offices of the Southern Pacific Co. here today that all passengers aboard the steamer Antilles were safe. The steamer Comus, which sailed from New Orleans today, will stop and take off the passengers. She is due here Monday.

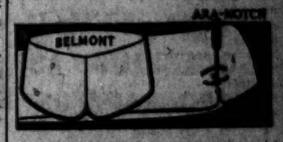

RELIEF STEAMER STARTS TO SHIP WRECKED IN GALE

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—Although a wireless message early today from the steamship Antilles, of the Southern Pacific Line, which went aground off the Grand Bank of the Bahama Isles in Monday night's hurricane, stated that the vessel had so far listed that the passengers would be landed in small boats, it is believed those on board are in no immediate danger.

A relief vessel is expected to reach the scene from Havana some time today. If aid from this source is not forthcoming a wrecker boat from Charleston, S. C., will reach the Antilles tonight.

This morning the steamship Comus of the Southern Pacific Line left for the scene of the Antilles' grounding to take on the passengers of the latter ship and render any needed assistance. The Comus should reach the Antilles Friday night.

The Antilles has a passenger list of 175, one of the number being Gov. Saunders of Louisiana, for whose safety fears are being entertained.

PANAMA LIBEL SUIT DECISION IS AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT

Judge Anderson Refuses to Send Editors to Washington for Trial.

DECISION IS SPEEDY

Court Holds That Newspaper Is Published Where It Is Printed.

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 13.—Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States Court of this district has dismissed the proceedings against Delavan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News. They were resisting removal to the District of Columbia for trial under a grand jury indictment charging them with having committed criminal libel in publishing articles alleging there was a corrupt profit of $23,000,000 in the sale of the Panama Canal to the United States.

Following is the text of Judge Anderson's decision:

"Well, this has been a very interesting discussion. It involves very interesting constitutional questions and it involves questions which are always interesting, and also this question of procedure. I suppose when you take into consideration the general interest taken in this case, the nature of the circumstances out of which it grew, the unusual features of the proceeding itself and the importance of the questions involved, that I would be entirely justified in reserving my decision and taking time to put down on paper the conclusions that I have come to.

"You notice, I say, that I have come to. But I have other things to do besides write, and in the immediate future my engagements are such as will preclude me taking time from other business to put down on paper, carefully as I would like to do, the view that I maintained upon these questions. So, at the risk of being somewhat misunderstood and incorrectly reported (no reflections on the reporter) I will give my views of this case now and decide the question so far as it has come up to me to decide.

Doubtful of Libel.

"Now, I carefully read over the brief which was handed to me Monday morning by Mr. Lindsay, which upon its face appeared to have been prepared by himself and Mr. Delancey Nicoll, the latter of whom is well known by reputation by all members of the profession, and I was very profoundly impressed with the learning and the research shown in that brief, and if it were necessary to a decision of the question before me I would try to go into it further and see whether or not my conclusions would agree with theirs. I do not feel now that I am called upon to decide the questions presented in that brief, and for that reason I do not propose now to go any further into it.

"I was very strongly impressed this morning with Mr. Winter's argument on the proposition that these articles are not libelous.

"Up to that time it had not occurred to me that there was any question about their being libelous, but now I am not so sure about it. I think myself that there is a good deal in the proposition that, when articles charge people with swindling and with thievery, and if in the articles is contained a statement of the facts upon which the charge is based, that does not necessarily follow that because the words 'thieves and swindlers' are used that the article is libelous per se, I will go that far offhand.

Question of Justification.

"Now, on two other questions that have been discussed here, I have more definite notions. In the first place, it is seriously contended by the defendants' counsel that these articles are conditionally privileged. Now it would be very hard to undertake to find definitions of privilege or conditional privileges. It is very hard to find one which is satisfactory.

"I ran across a statement on this thing by a very learned English judge—and there is one thing to be said, that when the English judges get down to it and say anything, it is worth our while to take notice of it—under the head of 'Malice' and the subhead 'Privilege and Justification.'

"In the American and English Encyclopedia of Law I find this statement, and it is followed by the definition of, which I spoke a moment ago: 'The reconciliation of the two classes of cases mentioned above, those in which motive is material and those in which motive is not material, is to be sought in an extension of concept of privilege as understood in the law of libel, or in a coherent application of the idea of justification or excuse.'

Conception of Privilege.

"Now, the conception—this is the language of the English judge: 'The conception of privilege in the law of defamation is that an individual may with impunity commit an act which is a legal wrong and but for his privilege would afford a good cause of action against him; all that is required, in order to raise the privilege and entitle him to protection, being that he shall act honestly in the discharge of some duty which the law recognizes and shall not be prompted by a desire to injure the person who is affected by his act.'

"Now, let us go back a little bit. I have had occasion to say before that a newspaper has a sort of duty to perform. It was well stated by a former Judge of the United States, 'It is the duty of a newspaper to print the news and tell the truth about it.' It is the duty of a public newspaper, such as is owned and conducted by these defendants, to tell the people, its subscribers, its readers, the facts that it may find out about public questions or matters of public interest. It is its duty and its right to draw inferences from the facts known, to draw them for the people.

"I might just digress long enough to suggest that it is not everybody that can draw inferences. Now, here was a great public question. There are many very peculiar circumstances about the history of this Panama Canal or Panama Canal business. I do not wish to be understood as reflecting upon anybody in office or out in connection with that matter, except such persons as I may name in that way.

An Unusual Revolution.

"The revolution in Panama, the circumstances surrounding it, were unusual. The people were interested in the construction of the canal. It was a matter of great public concern. It was much discussed. A large portion of the people favored the Nicaragua route. Another portion of those who were interested in it officially or personally, or just interested, preferred the Panama route.

"A committee was appointed to investigate the relative merits of the two routes. They investigated and reported in favor of the Nicaragua canal. Shortly afterward—I do not recall just how soon afterward—they changed to the Panama. Up to the time of the change, as I gather from the evidence, the lowest sum that had been suggested at which the property of the Panama Canal Co. could be procured was something over a hundred million dollars. Then, rather suddenly, it became known that it could be procured for fifty millions of dollars.

"Now, there were a number of people who thought there was something not just exactly right about that transaction, and I will say for myself that now I feel a natural curiosity to know what the real truth was. Thereupon a committee of the United States Senate was appointed to investigate these matters—about the only way that that matter could be investigated.

Cromwell's Reticence.

"The committee, as stated in these articles, and the man who knew all about it—I think that is the proper way to speak of Mr. Cromwell, 'knew all about it'—he was called before the commission.

"Now, Mr. Cromwell, upon having certain questions put to him, more or less pertinent, stood upon his privilege as attorney and refused to answer. What was the state of the case as shown by the evidence when we adjourned last June.

"At this session, certain parts of the record showing the proceedings before the Senate Committee have been introduced by the Government and the impression upon my mind from such facts as the Government has seen fit to introduce is not more favorable to Mr. Cromwell's position than it was upon the former hearing.

"So far as the record has been read—and that is all the part that I have an acquaintance with—Mr. Cromwell stood upon his privilege whenever questions were asked, the answers to which would, or might, rest upon him and his associates, but whenever a question was asked him which gave him an opportunity to say something in their behalf he ostentatiously thanked the examiner for the questions and proceeded to answer them.

Ground for Suspicion.

"To my mind that gave just ground for suspicion. I am suspicious about it now.

"As shown by the evidence subsequently, upon further examination in this matter, I suppose, knowing that he would be examined about certain transactions in connection with it, he took the pains to get the privilege released by his then client, and the reasons given for distinguishing, or varying, rather, his conduct in that instance from his conduct in the former instance, were about as unsubstantial as the reasons given upon the first instance for not answering then.

"So we have this situation: Here was a matter of great public interest, of public concern. I was interested in it; you were interested in it; we were all interested in it. Here was a newspaper printing the news, or trying to. Here was this matter up for discussion, and I cannot say now, I am not willing to say, that these inferences are too strongly drawn.

"I am not approving of the inferences. I am simply saying that I am not able to say that they were too strongly drawn. Now, if that is the situation—and as I understand the truth, that is the way it stands—the question is, did these defendants, under the circumstances, act honestly in the discharge of this duty which I have spoken of, if the law recognizes it, or were they prompted by a desire to injure a person who was affected by their acts?

Point Not Before Court.

"If it were necessary to decide this case upon the question of privilege, the lack of malice, I would hesitate quite a while before I would conclude that it was my duty to send these people to Washington for trial, but that is not all.

"This indictment charges these defendants with the commission of a crime in the District of Columbia. Now, the Constitution of the United States, in one of the amendments, which is a restriction of the National Government—I will not try to give the language—provides that the case shall be tried from the State or district where the offense is committed. Now I will state what I find the evidence to be, and if I am mistaken about it in any way I will be glad to be corrected, because upon that I am going to proceed to a conclusion.

FEDERAL JUDGE WHO WOULD NOT SEND EDITORS TO WASHINGTON

DUTY OF NEWSPAPERS

"The Indianapolis News was owned, the evidence shows, by these defendants, conducted and operated by them, printed and published by them in the city of Indianapolis, in the State of Indiana, at the time covered by this indictment. It had a daily circulation of 90,000 copies.

"About two thousand of these copies are circulated and distributed in the State of Indiana. Some four hundred or five hundred are distributed in one or two of the adjoining states and in the District of Columbia. There are sent by mail, or were sent by mail, about fifty copies—to the subscribers and persons who ordered them sent.

No Office in Washington.

"The defendants have no agent, or bureau or office and maintain no agency or bureau or office in the city of Washington or the District of Columbia for the circulation of papers within that district. Now, I think that is what the evidence in this case shows as to the way in which these papers are published and circulated.

"So the question is, do the defendants, when they print and publish 50 copies in the city of Indianapolis and deposit them in the United States mail in this building, to be transmitted by mail to 50 subscribers in Washington, do they publish those 50 papers in Washington?

"If they do, if they did, that court has jurisdiction of the offense. I won't go so far as to say it has jurisdiction of the defendants; but if they did not, the court has neither jurisdiction of the offense nor of the defendants. Now let us look at it a little. To my mind, there is but one inference, and one conclusion that can be drawn from it.

"These statutes that provide that where an offense is begun in one jurisdiction—for example, in one county and completed in another, or where an act is done in one county and the effect results in another—throw considerable light upon the question which we have here.

Act Committed in Indiana.

"In other words, if a man stands near the edge of Marion County—within the county—and fires a shot at an adjoining county and kills a man, were it not for this statute there is no jurisdiction to punish the man for murder in the county in which the man died. At common law he could be tried, convicted and punished in the county where he fired the shot.

"It is only because of the statutes that he can be tried in either county, and if it were not for the statute there would be no jurisdiction whatever to try him in the adjoining county.

"Everything that the evidence shows that the defendants do—or did—they do and did in the City of Indianapolis.

"Now, I have thought about this thing a good deal and it seems to me that I am compelled to take one or two views, and there is no middle ground. I cannot compromise it. Either, when the newspaper owner or proprietor does what the evidence in this case shows these defendants did—composed, printed and deposited in the mail for circulation these papers containing, for the purpose of this statement, libellous articles, either they are guilty here and in every county and district and jurisdiction into which those papers go, or they are only guilty here.

How Many Offenses.

"Now, there is no middle ground to take. When these defendants put the papers containing these, for their purpose, libelous articles into the postoffice here in Indianapolis, and they went through the mails throughout the country, through the various States, counties and districts of the United States, either they committed a crime, a separate, independent crime, every time one of these papers were sent into another county or State or district, or there was but one crime, and that crime was here.

"Counsel for the Government thought, in the case that I supposed, where the paper is deposited here in Indianapolis and circulated throughout the 92 counties, when I asked whether it could be prosecuted in every county—whether it was an offense in each county—counsel for the Government thought it could be. Then the question is put: Suppose there was a conviction in Posey County, would that be a bar to a prosecution in Marion County? Counsel for the Government thought it would. I do not think it would avail.

"I am just so certain that it would not that I almost feel like saying I know it. Let us see if it would not. The theory is that it becomes a crime in each jurisdiction where it is circulated. Well, it must be a separate crime. If there is something in the circulation of it in the other county, or district, or jurisdiction, which makes it a crime there, it must be a separate crime.

No Offense in Washington.

"There is no escape from that. If it is a separate crime, of course, it cannot be pleaded in barring a prosecution for another crime. I think as between these two views that the other view is the more reasonable one and is the correct one.

"The defendants will be discharged."

Anty Drudge Saves Gussie's Mustache.

Mrs. Young Bride—"It's no use talking, Augustus, your mustache will have to come off. I cannot possibly get these coffee stains out of the napkins without scrubbing the skin off my fingers!"

Augustus—"What! Take off my mustache! Why you used to say you'd hate to be kissed by a man without a mustache!"

Mrs. Young Bride—"Well—I'd rather do without kisses than go without fingers."

Anty Drudge—"You foolish dovelets! I'll wash the stains out for you in jig-time. Fels-Naptha soap and lukewarm water and Gussie's mustache is saved! The napkins will be whiter than they ever have been since they came from the store."

Why do we urge you so strongly NOT to use very hot water with Fels-Naptha soap?

Because boiling clothes makes them tender. There is a scientific reason for it. You take advantage of this natural law every time you boil a piece of tough beef. It becomes tender because water at a high temperature weakens the fibre.

The same thing occurs with clothes when they are scalded or boiled week after week: The fibre is weakened and fabric becomes tender.

Clothes washed the Fels-Naptha way last twice as long as those that are scalded or boiled. Then there isn't much washboard rubbing—and that too is harder on clothes than the roughest wear.

Try Fels-Naptha soap the right way—with lukewarm or cold water—and it will do all the real hard washing for you, without harm even to the most delicate lace.

Remember, the use of Fels-Naptha is not limited to washing clothes, but is equally indispensable when housecleaning or scrubbing. With lukewarm or cold water it cleans floors and woodwork, and has no equal for washing dishes.

The wrapper is red and green. Insist on these colors.

PEARY CHARGES COOK DID NOT GO FAR NORTH OF CAPE

"Indictment," Argues Physician Could Not Have Thought He Reached Pole.

him. He was with them for 14 days. They know him and told him everything. He speaks the Eskimo language, for he is a semi-Eskimo himself, and the Eskimo people have the most complete confidence in him."

SAME ESKIMOS WHOM PEARY QUOTES MADE WHITNEY BELIEVE IN COOK

STATEMENTS of Dr. Cook's two Eskimos, as reported by Commander Peary and four members of his expedition, are the sole basis for Peary's attack on Dr. Cook's claim to having reached the North Pole.

The proof thus offered is divided, in the Peary "indictment," into two classes:

1. A map, traced by the Eskimos, showing where they believed they had gone during their absence from Annootok (called by Peary Anoratok).

2. Answers of the Eskimos to direct questions from Peary, which are depended on to prove, independent of the map, that it would have been "a physical and mathematical impossibility" for Cook and them to have reached the pole.

The importance of Harry Whitney's testimony, already given, and of supplementary statements which he may be able to make, is shown by the contents of the "indictment." Nor can the fact be forgotten that Whitney, after having talked with these same Eskimos in their own language, declared his belief that Cook had been at the pole.

The first of the two points just enumerated was anticipated when Whitney said in an interview given just after his return to civilization:

Dr. Cook's Eskimos told me that Peary's men had been showing them some maps and charts, and that they did not understand them.

The second point was, in part, met by Cook's repeated statement that he told his Eskimos not to tell where they had been. By sharp questioning, the Eskimos might have been badgered out of their purpose to tell nothing, and might have thought they would serve Cook's purpose best by telling other than the true facts. This would resolve the matter into speculation as to when they were lying and when they were truthful, or as to their respective loyalty to and fear of Cook and Peary.

Peary's men, in their signed statement, say "no one of us has any doubt that they told us the truth." They also say that Eskimos told of instructions from Cook to tell nothing about their journey, and that "Dr. Cook had threatened them if they should tell anything." But the statement gives the impression that the Eskimos disregarded this command and warning.

(The statement as to a threat by Cook suggests a question asked by some persons who heard his lecture at the St. Louis Coliseum one week ago. The most thrilling passage in this lecture related to the killing of a bear with one of three cartridges which Cook had secreted in his clothing when the Eskimos supposed the ammunition exhausted. Some of Cook's hearers afterwards asked whether those emergency cartridges were saved wholly for killing game, or with a possible idea that it might be necessary to use them against the Eskimos. Cook might have thought, these critics suggested, that the Eskimos might combine and attack him, or that he might have to use extraordinary pressure in urging either or both of them to go where he wished them to go. No account was given, in the lecture, of the disposition of the other two cartridges.)

Peary's prefactory statement indicates that he heard, even before reaching Etah, that Cook said he had gone "a long way north," and that he had time, before reaching Etah, to consider what he would ask Etukishuk and Atwelah (he calls them I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pelah) when he should see them.

Peary further states that Cook's movements, up to the time the last Eskimos except Etukishuk and Ahwelah left him, became known to the Peary party on its way north. This indicates that Peary knew before going to the pole that Cook had been trying to make the pole.

MAP PEARY SAYS ESKIMOS TRACED TO SHOW ROUTE TAKEN BY DR. COOK

The dotted line on the large map, indicating the route which Peary says Cook's Eskimos traced to show where they had gone, shows a point near Cape Thomas Hubbard as the farthest north reached by them. It is noticeable that the tracing of the land journey on the return does not differ widely from Cook's own account of the same journey.

Peary Declares Eskimos Who First Told Him of Cook's Story, Before He Reached Etah on Return Journey, Laughed at It

New York, October 12.—The following statement of Commander Robert E. Peary, which he submitted, together with the accompanying map, to the Peary Arctic Club in support of his contention that Dr. Cook did not reach the North Pole, is now made public for the first time. The statement and map have been copyrighted by the Peary Arctic Club.

(Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1909, by the Peary Arctic Club, in the office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.)

Introduction by Peary.

Some of my reasons for saying that Dr. Cook did not go to the North Pole will be understood by those who read the following statements of the two Eskimo boys who went with him, and who told me and others of my party where he did go. Several Eskimos who started with Dr. Cook from Anoratok in February, 1908, were at Etah when I arrived there in August, 1908. They told me that Dr. Cook had with him, after they left, two Eskimo boys or young men, two sledges and some twenty dogs. The boys were I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah. I had known them from their childhood. One was about 18 and the other about 19 years of age.

On my return from Cape Sheridan and at the very first settlement I touched (Nerke, near Cape Chalon) in August, 1909, and nine days before reaching Etah, the Eskimos told me, in a general way, where Dr. Cook had been; that he had wintered in Jones Sound and that he had told the white men at Etah that he had been a long way north, but that the boys who were with him, I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah, said that this was not so. The Eskimos laughed at Dr. Cook's story. On reaching Etah, I talked with the Eskimos there and with the two boys and asked them to describe Dr. Cook's journey to members of my party and myself. This they did in the manner stated below.

R. E. PEARY.

SIGNED STATEMENT OF PEARY, BARTLETT, McMILLAN, BORUP AND HENSON, IN REGARD TO TESTIMONY OF COOK'S TWO ESKIMO BOYS.

The two Eskimo boys, I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah, who accompanied Dr. Cook while he was away from Anoratok in 1908 and 1909, were questioned separately and independently, and were corroborated by Panikpah, the father of one of them (I-took-a-shoo), who was personally familiar with the first third and last third of their journey, and who said that the route for the remaining third, as shown by them, was as described to him by his son after his return with Dr. Cook.

Notes of their statements were taken by several of us, and no one of us has any doubt that they told the truth.

Their testimony was unshaken by cross-examination, was corroborated by other men in the tribe, and was elicited neither by threats nor promises, the two boys and their father talking of their journey and their experiences in the same way that they would talk of any hunting trip.

Boys Trace With Finger.

To go more into details: One of the boys was called in, and, with a chart on the table before him, was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, pointing out with his finger on the map, but not making any marks upon it.

As he went out, the other boy came in and was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, also without making any marks, and indicated the same route and the same details as did the first boy.

When he was through, Panikpah, the father of I-took-a-shoo, a very intelligent man, who was in the party of Eskimos that came back from Dr. Cook from the northern end of Nansen's Strait, who is familiar as a hunter with the Jones Sound region, and who has been in Commander Peary's various expeditions for some fifteen years, came in and indicated the same localities and details as the two boys.

Then the first boy was brought in again, and with a pencil he traced on the map their route, members of our party writing upon the chart where, according to the boy's statement, they had killed deer, bear, some of their dogs, seal, walrus and musk oxen.

Father Upholds Them.

The second boy was then called in and the two went over the chart together, the second boy suggesting some changes as noted hereafter.

Finally, Panikpah, the father, was again called in to verify details of the portions of the route with which he was personally familiar.

The bulk of the boys' testimony was not taken by Commander Peary, nor in his presence, a fact that obviates any possible claim that they were awed by him.

Certain questions on independent lines from the direct narrative of the Eskimo boys were suggested by Commander Peary to some of us, and were put by us to the Eskimo boys.

Still later, Commander Peary asked the Eskimo boys two or three casual questions on minor points that had occurred to him.

"Threatened" by Cook.

During the taking of this testimony, it developed that Dr. Cook had told these boys, as he told Mr. Whitney and Billy Pritchard, the cabin boy, that they must not tell Commander Peary or any of us anything about their journey, and the boys stated Dr. Cook had threatened them if they should tell anything.

The narrative of these Eskimos is as follows:

They, with Dr. Cook, Francke and nine other Eskimos, left Anoratok, crossed Smith's Sound to Cape Sabine, slept in Commander Peary's old house in Prayer Harbor, then went through Rice Strait to Buchanan Bay. After a few marches Francke and three Eskimos returned to Anoratok.

Dr. Cook, with the others, then proceeded up Flagler Bay, a branch of Buchanan Bay, and crossed Ellesmere Land through the valley pass at the head of Flagler Bay, indicated by Commander Peary in 1898, and utilized by Sverdrup in 1899, to the head of Sverdrup's "Bay Fiord" on the west side of Ellesmere Land.

Their route then lay out through this fiord, thence north through Sverdrup's "Heuerka Sound" and Nansen Strait.

On their way they killed musk oxen and bear, and made caches, arriving eventually at a point on the west side of Nansen Strait (shore of Axel Heiberg Land of Sverdrup), south of Cape Thomas Hubbard.

A cache was formed here and the four Eskimos did not go beyond this point. Two others, Koolootingwah and Inughito, went on one more march with Dr. Cook and the two boys, helped to build the snow igloo, then returned without sleeping.

(These two Eskimos brought back a letter from Dr. Cook to Francke, dated the 17th of March. The two men rejoined the other four men who had been left behind, and the six returned to Anoratok, arriving May 7th. This information was obtained not from the two Eskimo boys, but from the six men who returned and from Francke himself, and was known to us in the summer of 1908. When the Roosevelt first arrived at Etah. The information is inserted here as supplementary to the narrative of the two boys.)

After sleeping at the camp where the last two Eskimos turned back, Dr. Cook and the two boys went in a northerly or northwesterly direction with two sledges and twenty odd dogs, one more march, when they encountered rough ice and a lead of open water. They did not enter this rough ice, nor cross the lead, but turned westward or southwestward a short distance and returned to Heiberg Land at a point west of where they had left the cache and where the four men had turned back.

Here they remained four or five sleeps, and during that time I-took-a-shoo went back to the cache and got his gun which he had left there, and a few items of supplies.

When asked why only a few supplies were taken from the cache, the boys replied that only a small amount of provisions had been used in the few days since they left the cache, and that their sledges still had all they could carry, so that they could not take more.

After being informed of the boys' narrative thus far, Commander Peary suggested a series of questions to be put to the boys in regard to this trip from the land out and back to it.

These questions and answers were as follows:

Did they cross many open leads or much open water during this time? Ans. None.

Did they make any caches out on the ice? Ans. No.

Did they kill any bear or seal while out on the ice north of Cape Thomas Hubbard? Ans. No.

Did they kill or lose any of their dogs while out on the ice? Ans. No.

With how many sledges did they start? Ans. Two.

How many dogs did they have? Ans. Did not remember exactly, but something over twenty.

How many sledges did they have when they got back to land? Ans. Two.

Did they have any provisions left on their sledges when they came back to land? Ans. Yes; the sledges still had about all they could carry so they were able to take but a few things from the cache.

From here they then went southwest along the northwest coast of Heiberg Land to a point indicated on the map (Sverdrup's Cape Northwest).

From here they went west across the ice, which was level and covered with snow, offering good going, to a low island which they had seen from the shore of Heiberg Land at Cape Northwest. On this island they camped for one sleep.

The size and position of this island, as drawn by the first boy, was criticised by the second boy as being too large and too far to the west, the second boy calling the attention of the first to the fact that the position of the island was more nearly in line with the point where they had left Heiberg Land (Cape Northwest) and the channel between Amund Ringnes Land and Ellef Ringnes Land.

This criticism and correction was accepted by the first boy, who started to change the position of the island, but was stopped, as Commander Peary had given instructions that no changes or erasures were to be made in the route as drawn by the Eskimos on the chart.

From this island they could see two lands beyond (Sverdrup's Ellef Ringnes and Amund Ringnes Lands). From the island they journeyed toward the left-hand

KINDLY SEND TO SOMEONE WITH CANCER

Valuable Laxative Free

Next to food itself there is nothing of greater importance to the human system than to make that food do its duty. By duty is meant to furnish health, strength and rich blood to the body.

It is necessary first of all to chew food thoroughly. Next the stomach must be in condition to digest it, and the bowels to churn it ready for removal. And right here so many find their greatest trouble. The fermenting, undigested food stays in the stomach and bowels, impairing the nerves and blood, giving rise to sallow complexion, headache, sour stomach, bad breath and often serious afflictions like skin diseases.

All this is due to impaired digestion and to a refusal of the bowels to do their work. The best way yet found to strengthen the stomach and tone the bowels so that they will do their work is by the use of such a grand laxative tonic as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, now for nearly a quarter of a century the one most important household remedy. It is a remedy and sure relief that all the family can use for the cure of constipation, indigestion, liver trouble and all other ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Thousands of American families use it regularly for these troubles, for it can be given with safety to the smallest child. In the home of Mary Belford, Louisville, Ky., as well as that of John Smith, Moorhead, Miss., they would as soon think of being without the actual necessities as without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. But realizing how skeptical many people are about a laxative, owing to the difficulty of finding one that is genuinely good, Dr. Caldwell will send a free sample of his remedy to anyone desiring it. He will cheerfully do this, so do not hesitate to make the request. The remedy can be bought of any druggist at only fifty cents and one dollar bottle, the large bottle being for family use.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

MADAM, DO YOU KNOW YOUR DANGER?

Do you realize the seriousness of symptoms of diseased kidneys and bladder and what the result may be?

Do you know that there are, today, thousands upon thousands of poor, wretched, suffering women dragging themselves about in a "dead-and-alive," nervous, hysterical, exhausted state—unfit for anything—unable to work—seeing no happiness or pleasure in life?

And do you know that in a great majority of cases these suffering sister-women are afflicted (as, possibly, you are afflicted) with some form of kidney and bladder disease? That's what it is. There may be other minor derangements too—but look out for your kidneys and bladder.

Whenever there is anything wrong with the Kidneys and Bladder, a good way to be sure of the fact is to give an honest remedy, such as De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills an honest trial. Then, if there is anything wrong with your Kidneys and Bladder, these marvelously beneficial Pills will at once rectify it, in nearly all cases. Then you will know what was the matter.

De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are especially intended for any and all derangements of the Kidneys and Bladder, in men or women. They are thoroughly antiseptic, soothing, healing, tonic and reconstructive in action, and cannot do anything but benefit you.

If you experience such distressing symptoms as constantly recurrent "sick headaches," exhausting, dragging pains in the back, groin and limbs, swollen and bloated extremities, excessive nervousness and hysteria, languor and "fagged-out" feeling—you may be certain that your system is loaded with that deadly uric acid poison which causes all Kidney and Bladder derangements. Then it's time to call a halt.

And then why not give De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills a trial? Nearly all druggists sell them, but their manufacturers are so anxious to have every man and woman afflicted with any derangement of the kidneys and bladder try these pills, and learn what they will really do, that they offer to send a trial box, free of all cost, to anyone who will take the trouble to write for it. Write for it today to E. C. De Witt & Co., Chicago—you do not know how much this may mean to you.

DeWITT'S KIDNEY AND BLADDER PILLS

DIRECT CLASHES BETWEEN COOK AND PEARY STORIES

THE statement which Peary, Bartlett, McMillan, Borup and Henson say they obtained from Cook's Eskimos conflicts with Cook's own story, as told in newspaper articles and in his lecture, in these important details:

COOK SAYS.

WE left Heiberg Island March 18, 1908, and began crossing the circum-polar sea. * * * A big lead which separates the main ice from the central pack was crossed with little delay. * * June 13, (on return from pole) we found ourselves near Ringe's Land (first sight of land since March 18, or 87 days before.)

WITH a good deal of anxiety (on return journey from pole) we watched the continued reduction of our food supply. * * There remained (May 24) scarcely enough food on our sledges to reach our caches on Nansen Sound unless we averaged 15 miles a day.

WE were a long time in reaching Cape Sabine. When we did get there * * our food was gone, but Greenland was in sight.

Peary Quotes Eskimos.

AFTER sleeping at the camp where the last two Eskimos turned back (March 17), we went north or northwest with two sledges and 20-odd dogs, one more march, when we encountered rough ice and a lead of open water. We did not enter this rough ice or cross the lead, but turned west or southwest, and returned to Heiberg Land. Here we remained four or five sleeps * * then went southwest along the coast (and did not return to the polar sea ice).

WHILE we were on Heiberg Land (after return from sea ice), I-took-a-shoo went back to the cache and got his gun, which he had left there, and a few articles of supplies. We could not take more, as our two sledges had all they could carry. We had plenty of provisions when we came back to land.

AT Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor, near Cape Sabine, we found a seal cached for us by Panikpah, I-took-a-shoo's father.

one of these two lands (Amund Ringnes Land), passing a small island which they did not visit.

The above portion of the statement of the Eskimo boys covers the period of time in which Dr. Cook claims to have gone to the pole and back, and the entire time during which he could possibly have made any attempts to go to it.

The answers of the Eskimo boys to Commander Peary's series of independent questions, showing that they killed no game, made no caches, lost no dogs, and returned to the land with loaded sledges, makes their attainment of the pole on the trip north of Cape Thomas Hubbard a physical and mathematical impossibility, as it would demand the subsistance of three men and over twenty dogs during a journey of ten hundred and forty geographical miles on less than two sledge loads of supplies.

If it is suggested that perhaps Dr. Cook got mixed and that he reached the pole, or thought he did, between the time of leaving the northwest coast of Heiberg Land at Cape Northwest, and his arrival at Ringnes Land where they killed the deer, we must then add to the date of Dr. Cook's letter of March 17, at or near Cape Thomas Hubbard, the subsequent four or five sleeps at that point, and the number of days required to march from Cape Thomas Hubbard to Cape Northwest (a distance of some sixty nautical miles), which would advance his date of departure from the land to at least the 25th of March, and be prepared to accept the claim that Dr. Cook went from Cape Northwest (about latitude eighty and a half degrees north) to the pole, a distance of five hundred and seventy geographical miles, in twenty-seven days.

After killing the the deer they then traveled south along the east side of Ringnes Land to the point indicated on the chart, where they killed another deer.

They then went east across the south part of Crown Prince Gustav Sea to the south end of Heiberg land, then down through Norwegian Bay, where they secured some bears, but not until after they had killed some of their dogs, to the east side of Graham Island; then eastward to the little bay marked "Eid's Fiord" on Sverdrup's chart; then southwest to Hell's Gate and Simmon's Peninsula.

First Open Water.

Here for the first time during the entire journey, except as already noted off Cape Thomas H. Hubbard, they encountered open water. On this point the boys were clear, emphatic, and unshakable. They spent a good deal of time in this region, and finally abandoned their dogs and one sledge, took to their boat, crossed Hell's Gate to North Kent, up into Norfolk Inlet, then back along the north coast of Colin Archer Penin-sula to Cape Vera, where they obtained fresh elder duck eggs. Here they cut the remaining sledge off, that is shortened it, as it was awkward to transport with the boat, and near here they killed a walrus.

The statement in regard to the fresh elder duck eggs permits the approximate determination of the date at this time as about the first of July. (This statement also serves, if indeed anything more than the inherent straightforwardness and detail of their narrative were needed, to substantiate the accuracy and truthfulness of the boys' statement. This locality of Cape Vera is mentioned in Sverdrup's narrative as the place where during his stay in that region he obtained elder ducks' eggs.)

Winter Camp Made.

From Cape Vera they went on down into the southwest angle of Jones Sound, where they killed a seal; thence east along the south coast of the Sound, killing three bears at the point noted on the map, to the peninsula known as Cape Spardo on the map, about midway on the south side of Jones Sound. Here they killed some musk oxen and, continuing east, killed four more at the place indicated on the chart, and were finally stopped by the pack ice at the mouth of Jones Sound. From here they turned back to Cape Sabine where they wintered and killed many musk oxen.

After the sun returned in 1909 they started, pushing their sledge, across Jones Sound to Cape Tennyson; thence along the coast to Clarence Head (passing inside of two small islands not shown on the chart, but drawn on it by the boys), where they killed a bear; thence across the broad bight in the coast to Cadogan Fiord; thence around Cape Isabella and up to Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor near Cape Sabine, where they found a seal cached for them by Panikpah, I-took-a-shoo's father. From here they crossed Smith Sound on the ice, arriving at Anoratok.

TRAIN RUNS ON BURNING BRIDGE

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 13.—The express train on the Houston & Texas Central Railroad, which left here at 8:30 o'clock this morning for the West, went through a burning bridge near McNeil and several coaches were wrecked.

Four passengers are reported killed and a number injured.

Nervous Dyspepsia and Neurasthenia

Weakness of the Nervous System Often Dependent Upon Long-continued Indigestion.

Neurasthenia, also known as "nervous exhaustion," "nervous debility," and "nervous prostration," is a disease, which in these modern, strenuous times is becoming more and more prevalent. It is a condition in which there is more or less marked and persistent loss of energy, together with considerable irritability.

Persons who suffer from this trouble are easily excited and irritated; cannot do as much work as formerly, and in attempting any mental effort, quickly become confused, and are unable to concentrate the attention. They also complain of insomnia, nervous indigestion, depression of spirits, and palpitation of the heart.

There is a general muscular weakness; the person cannot walk very far, and tires quickly on attempting physical exertion. There is ringing in the ears; blurring of eyesight; headache and vertigo; specks floating before the eyes, and a general restlessness The ability to sustain prolonged intellectual effort is interfered with, and the patient imagines he is losing his memory.

Neurasthenics continually watch for new symptoms, unconsciously exaggerate the old ones, attaching undue importance to them. Causeless fear is often suffered from; a dread of some impending danger; extreme pessimism; dark forebodings, and hysteria. Sleep is not refreshing, and the person feels much more tired in the morning than at night. Horrible dreams and nightmare are usually complained of.

But by far the most prominent manifestation of Neurasthenia is Nervous Dyspepsia. In nearly every case, this disturbance of the stomach dominates the complaint. Cause and effect may be transposed, and dyspepsia may be the result of Neurasthenia, but oftener, indigestion is the original cause of the nervous condtion. The nerves are simply "starved" because the stomach does not digest the food properly, and as the nerves are dependent upon the food which the blood absorbs from the stomach for their sustenance, any deprivation thereof is sure to cause nerve weakness.

The use of "nerve tonics" in this condition is a mistake; they merely stimulate, but do not rebuild nerve tissue. Completely digested food is the only true nerve builder and strengthener; and in the treatment of nervous exhaustion, one should first cure the nervous dyspepsia, which is usually the origin of the trouble, by taking STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS in doses of one or two after each meal, or whenever needed, and the long train of nervous symptoms will be cured along with the nervous dyspepsia.

This celebrated remedy is without a peer in the treatment of nervous indigestion and in fact, indigestion of any kind. They digest all the food with great thoroughness, and facilitate its absorption by the blood, which carries it to the weakened, diseased nerves and builds them up, so that every symptom of Nervous Exhaustion is gotten rid of.

TAFT MUST ACT ON RESIGNATION OF MR. CRANE

Minister to China's Telegram Was Directed to President Personally.

KNOX TO BE UPHELD

Washington Has Little Doubt That Secretary Acted Within Authority.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—What President Taft will do with the resignation of Charles R. Crane as Minister of the United States to China is the question of the hour in official Washington today. It is a long time since a diplomatic episode has excited the national capital more than this one.

Mr. Crane's stinging reply last night to the statement in which Secretary of State Knox yesterday afternoon announced that he had informed the Minister-designate that his resignation would be accepted, including, as the reply did, Mr. Crane's lucid telegram of virtual resignation to the President, was read and reread with the keenest zest.

Little doubt was expressed that the resignation of Mr. Crane would be accepted by the President. It was asserted without qualification by those in the confidence of the Secretary of State that Mr. Knox was perfectly assured of the approval of the President; that he was not the kind of man to take so drastic a step without knowing in advance that he would be supported in it.

Both Can't Be Sustained.

Even the friends of Mr. Crane—and several very astute friends have stood beside him in this crisis—while highly indignant at the treatment with which he had met at the hands of Mr. Knox, admitted that the developments since he left San Francisco at the peremptory summons of the Secretary had, regardless of the merits of the case, utterly destroyed any possible usefulness on his part at Peking, and that he could not now with self-respect do otherwise than insist upon the acceptance of his resignation.

Further than that, it was pointed out on both sides of the controversy that, as one man put it, "the State Department, big and broad as it is, isn't big enough now for both Knox and Crane. The President cannot sustain either without turning down the other. Mr. Knox could not now be reversed without it being interpreted throughout the world as an insufferable rebuff."

Therefore the press dispatches received last night from the newspaper correspondents traveling with President Taft that information regarding Mr. Crane must come from the State Department, "where the entire matter has been handled," were interpreted here this morning as indicating not only that the President had no intention of interfering with the action of the Secretary of State but also that he intended the Secretary to bear all of the responsibility for that action.

Telegram to President.

At the same time it was borne in mind that Mr. Crane's telegram of resignation was addressed to the President in person, as their relations officially required, and that it would have to be acted upon in the same way by the President in person.

One of the possible indirect results of the whole incident was discussed with much interest in some diplomatic quarters last night and today, and that is the unmistakable notice that Japan has incidentally received, even in the words of Mr. Knox's statement of yesterday, that this Government looks with disapproval upon her gains in Manchuria through the two new treaties with China which have been so much discussed in connection with the Crane affair.

According to this view, Mr. Crane, intentionally or unintentionally, has been made the pawn in the gambit of expediency.

A man who has studied international politics for many years, but who would not be quoted by name, described it in this way:

"It was very necessary that Japan should be advised of the intention of this Government to protect to the utmost the interests of American trade in Manchuria, yet in such a way as to avoid placing the State Department in a position by which it would be awkward to retreat in the event of the odds being found too great.

"In the ordinary course, the great Powers interested in maintaining the 'open door' in Manchuria could have been approached by Secretary Knox with the purpose of gaining their support in a joint representation to Japan and China that the two treaties recently negotiated between those countries conferring upon Japan a practical monopoly of the exploitation of railroads and mineral resources of Manchuria were obnoxious to these powers.

"Possibly the State Department had so far progressed in taking soundings as to lead it to doubt whether the support of a majority of the great powers could be obtained. Secretary Knox's statement issued yesterday shows that the negotiations are still in progress, but certainly does not indicate that success has been attained.

"The recent disclosures, the truth of which, as Mr. Crane in his statement points out, the Department of State fails to deny, may have served this purpose very well, and the fact that the department felt called upon to 'punish' Mr. Crane for those disclosures might well serve as notice to the Japanese Government of the serious objections of this Government to the new treaties."

After Secretary Knox had notified Mr. Crane yesterday "that his resignation would be accepted" the Chicagoan made a statement in which he said that in making speeches at banquets and at other places he was following the directions of President Taft. He continued:

"I assumed the President wished me to discuss realities and not platitudes. I have not had experience as a public speaker, and it was and is a difficult role, but I have done my best to carry out the President's wishes.

"The difficulty has also been increased by the absence of specific instructions from the State Department and of any adequate discussion with its officials as to the policy of this Government. I have been much gratified that no criticism has come to me from any official source until I was recalled to Washington last week."

Touching on the article in the Chicago Record-Herald, which was made the basis of the direct charge against him, he contended the facts used were of general knowledge, and that practically all therein had been printed before. He said:

"As I was hurriedly leaving Washington a representative of an important paper asked me about the China-Japan agreement, and I said the matter was under consideration, as was well known; but that no decision had been reached, and I may have said, although I do not recall it, that obviously no statement would be prepared in the absence of Mr. Hoyt. I advised him to get thoroughly informed on the whole subject, as it would be of the greatest importance that it be handled intelligently by the American press, if official action were taken."

According to the department viewpoint, the most objectionable statement made in a speech by Mr. Crane was a seeming reflection on Mr. Knox.

Crane Formerly a Democrat.

Mr. Crane came in for a degree of censure also for an intimation in the same speech, apparently put in a semi-jocular manner, that Mr. Taft was the only Republican in whose ability to handle the reins of government he had confidence. Mr. Crane was a Democrat up to the time Mr. Taft ran for the presidency and his conversion to the Republican cause was due, so he has indicated, to an intense personal admiration for Mr. Taft, based on a speech made by Mr. Taft in Shanghai two years ago, in which the attitude of the United States toward China was explained.

The chief charge of undiplomatic action against Mr. Crane was thus expressed in a public statement by Mr. Knox:

"Without consultation with the Acting Secretary, or any other responsible officer of the department, and without the knowledge or authority of any one connected with the department, Mr. Crane gave out a newspaper story to the effect that this Government was preparing to protest against some features of the agreements, and that the promulgation of the protest also awaited the return of an official who was to formulate it.

"The story appeared in a Western paper, and at the same time, or a day later, in the Japanese press, and subsequently was generally published."

The agreements referred to concerned the Japanese-Chinese convention relating to the control of Manchurian trade.

RIVER AND SEA STEAMER LINE IS ABANDONED

Promoters Decide Water Below Memphis Is Not Deep Enough for Craft.

The plan for a New York-to-Memphis steamship line has been abandoned, press dispatches from New York said Wednesday. It is feared that the river channel above Vicksburg would be impassable for vessels capable of ocean travel.

The plan for the sea-river boat line was based on a Government report that a 10-foot channel could be depended upon for 10 months in the year. The Texas City Steamship Co. was almost in readiness to go ahead with the project when it was decided that some independent investigating should be done. The results of that investigation convinced the backers of the project that the Government report has been much too optimistic.

The abandonment of the New York-to-Memphis line is of local interest for the Mississippi Valley Transportation Co., of which W. K. Kavanaugh is the head, was preparing to connect with this line at Memphis with steel barges, towed by paddle-wheel tugs.

The realization of the river-ocean line will depend on deep water and in the meantime, the press dispatches say, if the St. Louis company wants to send its freight to New York by water it will have to transport its barges to New Orleans and transfer the freight there.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Red Banks, Miss.—"Words are inadequate to express what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from a female disease and ailment which the doctors said was caused by a fibroid tumor, and I commenced to think there was no help for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman after all other means had failed. My friends are all asking what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Willie Edwards.

Hampstead, Maryland.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was weak and nervous, and could not be on my feet half a day without suffering. The doctors told me I never would be well without an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors, and I hope this valuable medicine may come into the hands of many more suffering women."—Mrs. Joseph H. Dandy.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof could one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

THREE "SOPHS" IMPRISONED IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE

Shurtleff Freshmen Gag and Then Bind Them to Operating Table.

WINDOWS ARE SMASHED

Suit for $300 Damages Threatened Against Seven College Students.

Banker D. A. Wyckoff of Alton is threatening to cause the arrest of seven sophomores in Shurtleff College at Upper Alton on charges of malicious destruction of property, and the sophomores say if they are prosecuted they will seek to hold seven freshmen legally responsible for the offense charged against themselves.

Mr. Wyckoff is a son-in-law of Dr. E. C. Lewis of Upper Alton. He looks after the doctor's property. Tuesday morning he found that about $200 worth of plate-glass windows had been broken out of Dr. Lewis' office and $100 worth of furniture smashed.

Early Monday evening seven freshmen caught three sophomores, L. Griffey, Fred Stiritz and Ray McClellan, one by one, carried them seven blocks to the doctor's office, bound them with chains to the operating table, gagged them and departed.

Freshmen on Guard.

It was about 7:30 p. m. when the last man was gagged and bound. Among the freshmen who are said to have taken part in the affair are Robert Rowley, George Sloman and Clarence Chappelle. About 11 o'clock the sophomores, with Class Leader Christophisen in the van, swooped down on the office where the men were tied. They had just learned of their predicament.

Seven sophomores found seven freshmen on guard. The "sophs" demanded that they be admitted to the office, so that they could liberate their fellows. The freshmen refused, whereupon the sophomores bombarded the stronghold with brickbats, stones and other missiles.

Christophisen was badly cut in three places on one hand by broken glass. McClellan, one of the captors also was cut by falling glass, thus suffering from the assault of his would-be rescuers.

Sophomores Are Repulsed.

The seven sophomores were repulsed by the seven freshmen, who stood guard until 2 a. m., when, considering that five and a half hours' punishment was sufficient for the three men, whose offense was that they might have taken part against the freshmen in the flag rush scheduled for next week, released the prisoners.

McClellan, Stiritz and Griffey, when the gags were removed from their mouths, remarked that they would get even.

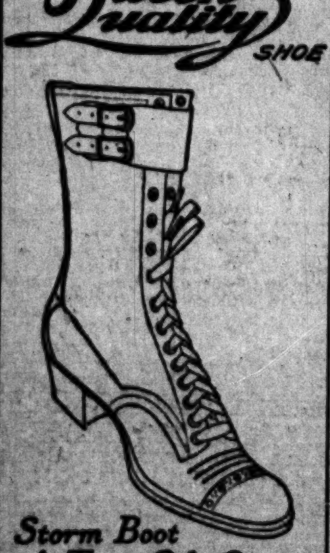

Dr. Lewis, who lives across the street from his office, did not know that his operating table was occupied by the three impatient patients.

Husband Show, Like Horse Show, Is Chicago Society Women's Latest Diversion

Gown-Buttoning Contest Without Profanity, Willingness and Obedience Some of the Points Old Maid Judges to Pass On.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—It has come at last! Chicago is to have a Husband Show. Heretofore the society women of this city have been content to exhibit their horses, their pet dogs and cats, their rubber plants and oleanders.

Now they are going to trot out their husbands and put them through their paces.

For the first show an effort will be made to obtain as entries 12 of the finest husbands in Chicago, every one of them guaranteed to be house-broke, button-trained and "so gentle a lady can drive him."

Opening Is Oct. 23.

If the show is a success the Coliseum will be engaged for next year's exhibition. The date set for the initial venture is Oct. 23 and the place will be the home of Mr. and Mrs. James S. McCullough, 5120 Kenmore avenue, in Paradise Flats.

Three unmarried women, spinsters because of their inability to find model husbands, will be the judges.

The wives of all the show-husbands will be present to explain their good points.

But the husbands will not only be verbally exploited, they will be put through severe tests to prove that they are entitled to awards.

The grand prize will be awarded to the husband who can hold a baby in one hand, warm a milk bottle with the other and at the same time cook breakfast and fire the furnace.

There will be a special class also for husbands who can fire the cook.

Gown-Buttoning Contest.

A gown-buttoning contest will be one of the trying ordeals through which the entrants will be put. Speed and endurance will count 20 points and refraining from profanity 80 points.

The husbands will be lined up, and at a signal their wives will enter the room. Each wife will wear a new fall hat and she will walk right up to her husband and tell him how much she paid for it.

The effect of these announcements will be carefully noted and those husbands who do not smile when told the price of their wives' hats will be eliminated from the contests.

The "points" on which the husbands will be judged will be quantity of hair (or polish of the bald spot), obedience, general good looks, ability to tie a double bow-knot, willingness to wipe the supper dishes and scientific knowledge of the use of pins.

Presidents Taft and Diaz.

President Taft of the United States of America and Gen. Porfirio Diaz, President of the United States of Mexico, will meet in El Paso next Saturday, Oct. 16. This meeting is fraught with more interest, social and political, than the meeting of any two European monarchs, and is an historical event that marks an event in the life of the North American Continent. Passengers on the Rock Island trains through El Paso, the route of the Golden State Limited, en route to California, will have an opportunity to witness this meeting and the event incidental to the proper reception of the two distinguished rulers.

President Diaz will come into the United States and officially greet President Taft at El Paso, after which President Taft will cross into Mexico at Juarez, where he will be received by President Diaz and his suite.

Troops of both nations will engage in military pageants and civilian organizations will make the occasion the most brilliant affair that has ever been held in the Southwest.

This meeting of Taft and Diaz is typical of the new life that is entering into the Southwest. This corner of the United States has been called a barren desert since white men first fought their wars of conquest through its meager vegetation. The border land of Mexico, known as a frontier, where pioneers prospected and cattlemen rode in wild adventure, is now a garden spot. Who come to see rulers of two great republics greet each other in this city will not pass through a barren rocky land of little value, but through thriving towns and farming communities, the result of irrigation and railway facilities provided by the Rock Island lines.

El Paso will be found a modern city with metropolitan facilities and many advantages that the conservative Eastern communities have not yet aroused themselves to adopt. President Diaz and President Taft will find in this frontier post not a picket of industrial advance, but a veritable center of civilization. The meeting of the two presidents closes a long chapter in which are written thrilling events dating from the time when the advancing Americans drove the last Mexican soldier southward across the Rio Grande until Diaz comes to greet in friendship his powerful neighbor, and make a tacit compact to the effect that the commercial interests of the two peoples are one. From this meeting it is expected that the business men of Mexico and the United States will be able to negotiate with each other with more facility and more profit than ever in the past.

WRIGHTS READY TO "SEIZE" ALL RIVAL MACHINES

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1909, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

PARIS, Oct. 13.—The first active step, the first vigorous fight toward the future monopoly of the atmosphere is to be taken here at once and in the interest of American flyers, the Wright brothers.

It is said that the managers of the Compagnie Generale de Navigation Aerienne, to which Wilbur and Orville Wright sold their patents for France, and in which they own shares, will seize, technically, all the aeroplanes that flew at the recent meet at Juvisy, or that are now in the aeronautical show here, except the Voisin biplanes.

With this exception every aeroplane in the show, including the Farman, the Latham, the Bleriot and the Renault-Pelterie heavier-than-air machines, will be subjected to what the French law calls a descriptive seizure—"saisie descriptive." This does not involve the actual seizure of the machines, but is a process whereby an official description of a machine is recorded for the future benefit of the court. In effect, it is an injunction.

The chief claim which the Companie Generale makes is that these aeroplanes infringe on the warping wing principle of the Wright machine. It is the same point the Wrights make in their suit against Glenn H. Curtiss in America. The company declares it does not desire to close the aeronautic show nor to interfere with the manufacture of other machines. It wants simply the legal issue decided in order that it may obtain royalty for the infringement which it claims is due.

FAMOUS VELASQUEZ PAINTING COMING TO UNITED STATES

Dealer Says New Tariff Will Help Americans Empty Europe of Art Treasures.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A famous portrait by Velasquez and considered one of the finest of paintings is destined soon to become the most famous picture in the world according to H. C. Duveen, an international art dealer, who has just returned from London. This picture, which has been purchased by a wealthy American, will arrive here in two months.

Mr. Duveen, who would not reveal the name of the portrait nor the identity of its American purchaser at this time, said: "The new tariff regulations will facilitate the importation of works of art. In the course of a few years Europe will be emptied of all the rare sculptures, paintings, bronzes and masterpieces it has been hoarding up for so many centuries."

GIN FOR THE KIDNEYS

Gin Long Recognized by the Medical Profession as a Remedy for Kidneys and Bladder.

For a long time the medical profession has prescribed gin in some form or other for kidney and bladder complaints. It is most effective when used in the following prescription. Six ounces good pure gin, one-half ounce fluid extract buchu, one-half ounce Murax compound. These ingredients can be purchased separately and mixed at home or any good druggist can furnish the entire prescription. Take in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day after meals.

Prompt attention should be given the first symptom of kidney or bladder trouble, such as pain in the back, rheumatic pains in the joints, soreness in region of the groin or hip, dizziness, puffiness under the eyes, etc. Chronic rheumatism, Bright's disease and diabetes develop quickly from the lesser forms of kidney trouble. * * *

"AN INDISCRETION INDEED."

In the light of Secretary Knox's explanation of his action in the case of Mr. Charles R. Crane, the short-time Minister to China, comment on its merits is superfluous. Mr. Crane's indiscretion consisted not only in making public confidential information, but in giving it a twist of expression which indicated hostility on the part of our Government towards the Manchurian agreement of China and Japan. This was not only indiscreet in the accredited representative to China, but placed the Department of State in an embarrassing position. The discrediting of the Minister was imperative. Mr. Crane's statement of the case gives another and better aspect to his conduct and his motives.

The offense upon which Secretary Knox acted was contained in a newspaper article, but the Secretary proved himself a skilled diplomat by ignoring another offensive remark to which Mr. Crane gave utterance at the dinner of the American Asiatic Association in New York. Speaking of the desirability of closer financial and commercial relations with China, he is quoted as saying:

"It may not always be necessary to repeat the new form of holdup which our State Department has recently been so successfully engaged in—of forcing money on China."

"The new form of holdup" charged against our State Department is a happy phrase which accurately described the situation. It was the truth—that was an indiscretion indeed. One can imagine the bland smile on the faces of Chinese statesmen when they read this utterance of a new Minister just sent out by the State Department.

But, seriously, the Crane incident suggests the wisdom of establishing a school of diplomacy where available citizens with diplomatic ambitions may be trained in the arts of subtle speech and discreet silence. A diploma from a college of etiquette and caution, in lieu of practical training, might save the Government many embarrassments.

REDISCOVERING WELL-KNOWN FACTS

A pupil in the Chicago public schools was found two years behind her classes although she was not mentally deficient. Inquiry led to an investigation, the results of which, as to 200 similar cases, have been made public.

All of these children—6 to 15 years of age—were suffering from some physical malady or imperfection. Decaying teeth, deformed feet, crooked backs, anaemia, etc. Many of these had more than one such enfeebling malady. The physicians reported that in their opinion the crooked backs was due in many cases to the habit the child had of carrying her younger brothers and sisters. It was a grave fault of the mother to allow this. She should have employed a nurse girl. A breakfast in one of these families was composed of baker's bread with lard and coffee. It is said that this was a fair sample of most breakfasts in that group.

The conclusion was that these children were backward in their studies because of their physical weaknesses. But what caused the physical weakness?

Some time ago the Legislature passed a law forbidding the employment of women in the factories more than 10 hours in 24. It was argued that a woman had a constitutional right to work as long as she pleased, and a right to contract for 12, 16 or 18 hours in pursuance of this sacred constitutional liberty. The courts took this view and enjoined the enforcement of the law and the women of Illinois are still enjoying their liberty.

These facts, which may be paralleled in almost every State, stare the community in the face. They are stark, point blank, impudent. They indict conditions. But it is no new thing suddenly sprung upon an astonished and outraged people. The conditions have been known for years, and long before this Chicago inquiry was set on foot it was known that the conditions produced physical and mental degeneracy. Why tell us for the thousandth time that the backwardness of the child is due to anaemia, a crooked back and an empty stomach, or a stomach partially filled with vicious food? We know all that.

But any attack upon conditions, like this women's employment act, is sure to be resisted desperately by selfish interests and only sturdy work intelligently directed will beat this opposition. A shining fact which has shone for twenty years need not be rediscovered. Why not employ the time and energy so wasted in a concerted attack upon the conditions? Social, not individual work, is the crying need of the day.

THE RIGHT OF FREE SPEECH

Judge Anderson of the United States Court, questioning the propriety of indictment in the Panama libel case, went to the heart of the issue. Remarking that there were honest expressions of opinion regarding the choice of routes for the Panama Canal, and as to the wisdom of the Government's constructing or owning an Atlantic-Pacific canal, he characterized the whole Panama scheme as "a great political project." He continued:

The press has a public duty to perform and in political discussions it seems to me that the conception of libel should be greatly different from the conception that should apply to a case of libel on a person's private character. I am not seeking to prejudice the case at this time; I am only seeking for light on the question here as to whether criminal libel may be possible in this matter. Criminal libel is a crime against society.

I am of the opinion that the fact that certain persons were called 'thieves' and 'swindlers' does constitute libel per se. A newspaper has a certain duty to perform. As a former president had said: "It is the duty of a newspaper to print the news and to tell the truth about it." It is the duty of a newspaper to draw inferences for the people.

The vital question in this whole proceeding against the New York World and Indianapolis News is the freedom of the press—its freedom to discuss public policies and the acts and purposes of public officers and of men who deal with the Government. Free publication and discussion of public affairs in which the people are concerned is not only a right but a duty. It is necessary to the protection of society and the safeguarding of public interests that the press shall fearlessly lay bare all facts touching upon public questions and governmental acts and shall direct public opinion to their significance.

As the real issue in the libel cases is the freedom of the press, so the real point of the contention against the removal of the accused persons to Washington for trial is the right of the citizen to be tried where the alleged offense was committed and to be protected from the injustice of trial far from home under conditions which make successful defense costly and difficult. On this point Judge Anderson, dismissing the removal proceedings, said:

That man has read the history of our institutions to little purpose who does not view with apprehension the success of such a proceding as this to the end that citizens could be dragged from their homes to the District of Columbia, the seat of Government, for trial under the circumstances of this case.

Every step in the libel proceeding renders clearer the evident intent to use the process of the Government to punish the accused newspaper men, not for libel, but for criticism of the Roosevelt administration. The effect of such punishment would naturally be the intimidation of the press generally. It is this aspect of the cases which emphasize their importance as a test of the fundamental and constitutional right of free speech.

The decision of Judge Anderson against the removal of the defendants marks the first victory in this great battle for the liberty of the American press.

THE THIRD DEGREE AGAIN.

What right have the detectives of East St. Louis to question and torture Arthur B. Creston, accused of the murder of Chief of Detectives Gills. Only the courts have authority to question and no individual or public officer has a right to torture him.

Creston may be innocent of the crime. That is the presumption which holds until he is proved guilty in court. But there will be no question at all of the detectives' guilt, if he dies under their torture.

These crimes are committed all over the land, especially in large cities. But the American people, with oxlike insensibility, cannot be aroused to think of an abuse which cost generations of conflict to extirpate. Liberty, freedom, rights—apparently these are only empty words.

TOO POOR FOR THE SENATE.

United States Senator Frank P. Flint of California, with re-election his to command, has decided to retire at the end of his present term, a year from next March. He explains that he is too poor to remain in the Senate. While yet he is able he owes it to his family to get out of politics and endeavor to acquire a competence.

This is an astonishing variation of the rule which governs senatorial longevity. "Few die and none resign" has been as true of the Upper House of Congress as of the personnel of any department of government. We have had men go to the Senate because they were rich and because they wanted to get rich. We have had poor men defeated because they were poor and rich men because they lacked other qualities, but heretofore we have had but one man—Senator Spooner—calmly renounce the honor within his grasp because he could not aford to accept it.

Between the lines of Senator Flint's statement captiousness might find a condemnation of some of his colleagues less squeamish than he, or an intimation that he is himself too honest to take advantage of the opportunities supposed to come to a Senator. A cruel view is that Flint is a subtle politician bent on influencing opinion in his own favor by a pretense of poverty. It is becoming a popular conception that a man who can't afford to serve the public is the man the public can't afford not to have in its service. But it is a very unusual situation—a man who can't afford to accept a $7500 position with mileage from California.

THE RICHEST WOMAN.

Monday the dispatches told of Mrs. Harriman's inheritance of $267,000,000 and classified her as the richest woman in the world. This amount is wealth beyond the dreams of avarice. It is inconceivable as of use in supplying the personal wants of any individual. A sum so vast usually indicates collective ownership, syndicated possession or Government revenues. But rightly enough the woman with it in her control is the richest in the world—the richest by common reckoning and general consent.

But on Tuesday comes Mrs. Mary Orey to declare by personal testimony that she is the richest woman in the world—and the happiest. No wealth in heavy accumulation of stocks and bonds and vulgar dollars is her share. The world will make no reckoning of her possessions. But she has possessions—five children suddenly restored to her and a husband regained. Trials and misfortunes had separated her from them all. The grim hand of circumstance was ruthless before it was kindly. And in the fullness of her joy she made proclamation of her wealth and happiness.

The dispatches will not bear to the four corners of the earth announcement that Mrs. Mary Orey is the richest woman in the world. She will find no place beside Mrs. Harriman, Mrs. Sage and Mrs. Hetty Green, but is her own testimony not of supreme value? None of the three mentioned has laid claim to the distinction of greatest wealth or even of great wealth. Of the four which is the richest?

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Humane Officers for Every Ward.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have a good plan to give to the people of our city. Let the Humane Society appoint some good people in every ward to work as a humane officer and give his attention to it for a short time and they will stop overloading poor, dumb animals. I, for one, live in a part of the city that coal teams and all kinds of vehicles pass all day with big loads, and the whip is always at the poor horses' legs or in the back. I will gladly give my services free to their cause and see if we can't put a stop to the inhuman treatment to poor horses.

ED GRAVES.

Illegal Torture of Suspects.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your Tuesday first-page story of the "third degree" as applied by the police to a young man named Creston, shows that the recent crusade by ex-Gov. Johnson and the Post-Dispatch has not yet borne fruit, as far as East St. Louis is concerned. It is said that this young man has not been permitted to sleep for three days since 5 o'clock Saturday morning, when he awoke as a patient in St. Mary's Hospital. Every time he shows any inclination to close his eyes, the detectives shake him and prod him with questions. How cowardly! Of course these detectives have had their full share of sleep since they began this long torture. As Gov. Johnson showed, the system is illegal and ought to be stopped. What a mockery of the legal maxim that a man is entitled to the benefit of a doubt until convicted. We begin to punish him before conviction, for fear we should not be able to convict him.

W.

Freshmen's Poor Spelling.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The very bad showing in spelling by freshmen of the Northwestern University at Chicago would probably be duplicated here if examinations in spelling were held among the freshmen of our local universities. In my opinion the cause is the neglect of spelling in the high schools and the overloading of the pupils' minds with material that is of no use except to the specialist. My son, a high school student, brings home books on ancient history which go into detain to such a degree that the reading is burdensome in the extreme. The same is true in regard to books on mathematics and other studies. The authors don't seem to know the art of eliminating what is irrelevant, or else the publishers put out big, fat books in order to get more for them. As long as high school students are stuffed in this way, they will be weak in spelling, which is by no means an easy thing to acquire and ought to be a constant study all through the educational course.

PATER.

Red Tape in Humane Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

F. H. Wilmarth is mistaken, and so is "C. P.," whose letter he answered, about the necessity of funds for the prosecution of violators of the laws against cruelty to animals. Before I subscribe one dollar, or one cent, I want to see the money already available do better service.

The original Humane Society has impressed me as being a soft snap for a few officials who are drawing salaries and waiting for more money to carry on the work. Several years ago I entered the office of the society and offered my services free as an agent for the society in my spare time, and in those days I was a great deal on the streets and saw lots of cruelty. I figured that by so doing there would be at least one more officer or agent to help the work along without additional expense to the society. But I was blandly told that my services were not needed and that only policemen or men appointed by the Police Department could be used. Now, my opinion is that at least a dozen or more willing and humane citizens (F. H. Wilmarth and "C. P." included) would, like myself, gladly give their spare time to the work if allowed to exercise authority when they see an act of cruelty on the streets, and this without any expense to the society.

In all cases like above it seems to me that much of the money appropriated to carry on a good work is misspent in paying salaries and fitting out offices and paying for a lot of annual reports that can never help a poor suffering animal.

It is well enough for the humane officers to sit back and say to us: "When you see a case of cruelty, report it and we will take care of it," but I have found that to be a failure in nine out of ten cases. I made two reports, one in writing and one by telephone, and nothing ever came from either of them.

H. REICHARD.

GROSS MISMANAGEMENT.

From the Electra (Tex.) News.

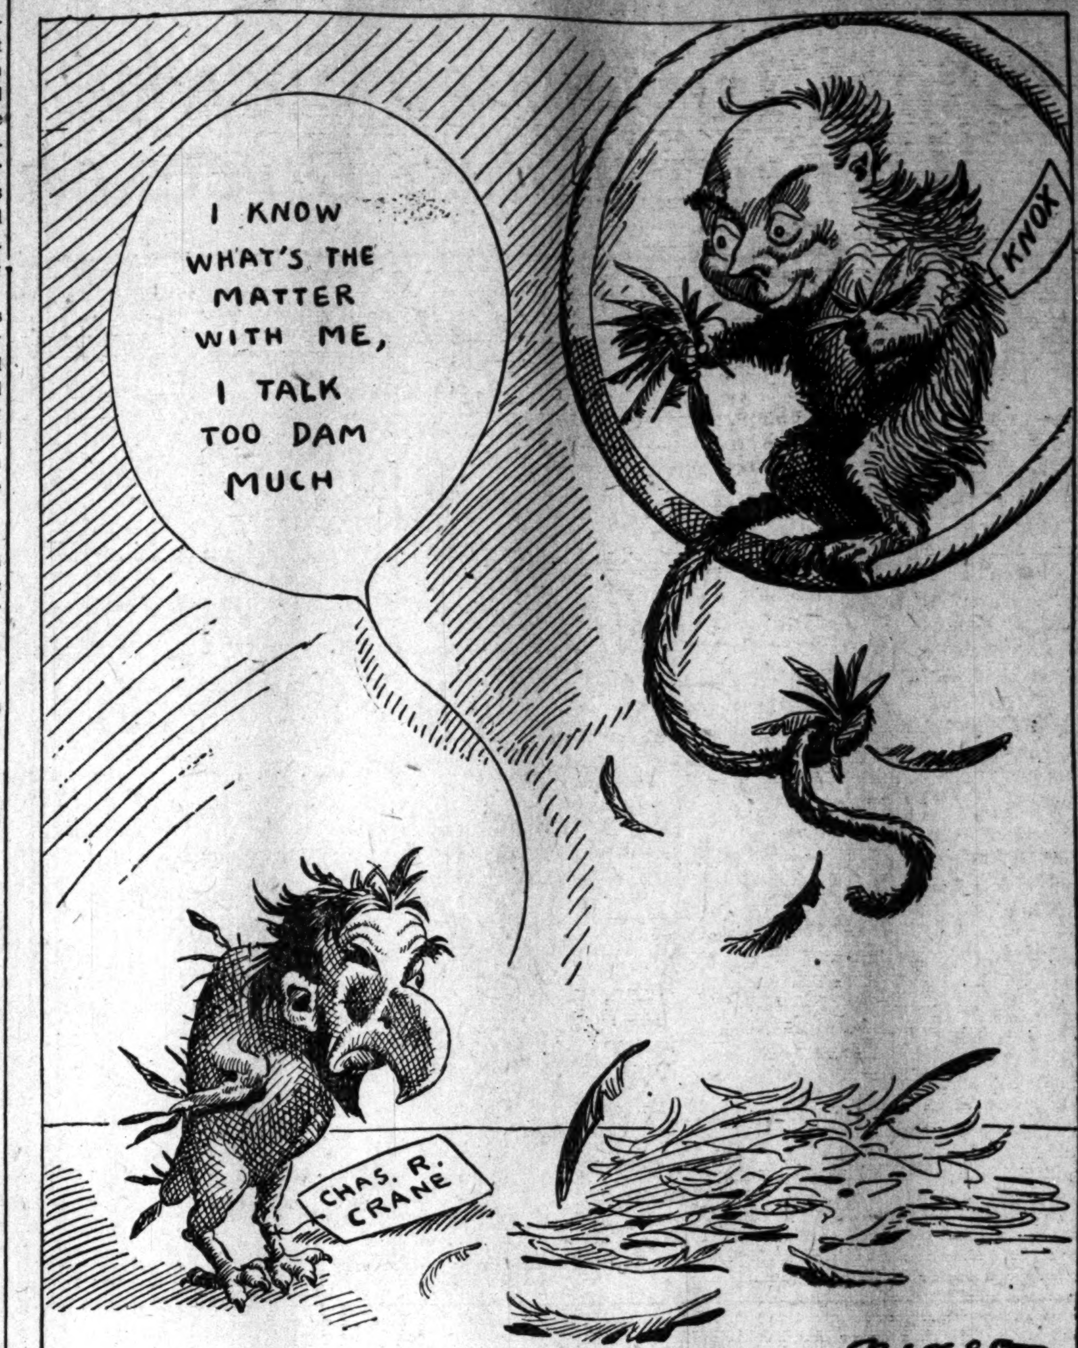

A man will, on a rainy day, take a $3 gun, walk 15 miles, and shoot 15 cents' worth of ammunition at a 2-cent bird, while his gates at home have no hinges, his fences down, and his stock has no shelter. He will walk half a mile to a neighbor's house and stop him from work to tell him how to do certain things on the farm, while his crop is in the grass and weeds, and just before leaving he will remark that the country is going to the dogs. He will quit his crop during the busy season to come to town to buy tobacco, and tell what kind of a Legislature it requires to bring prosperity. He will contend that it is too costly to raise hogs, and then feed six worthless dogs the year around, and buy bacon thin enough to make suspenders out of, and pay 12 to 15 cents a pound for it. If one owns a home, there is something always on hand to be done at all times.

HOUSTON'S GREAT RECORD.

From the Houston Post.

All but 55 of Houston's vacationing wives are at home and have filed their reports. And in the whole town but five canaries have starved to death, but three lawns have been captured by the grass, and only seven carpets were burned by cigar stumps that fell on the floor while the game was in progress. Every report says: "My husband has told me the full truth." Can that record be duplicated in this world?

A MONKEY AND PARROT TIME

THE BARRIE DIVORCE SUIT.

From the New York World.

James M. Barrie, the playwright, is bringing suit for divorce. Lord Esher, George Alexander, William Archer, Edmund Gosse, Maurice Hewlett, Henry James, A. E. W. Mason, Arthur Pinero, Beerbohm Tree and H. G. Wells unite in asking the newspapers, "as a mark of respect and gratitude to a writer of genius," to abstain from "any mention of the case beyond the briefest report of the hearing."

A request that the newspapers should not print salacious testimony might come with good grace in London, where the papers go to lengths in plain speaking never imitated in America. But this is not the motive of the request. Privacy is desired because Mr. Barrie is a sensitive man of genius. Perhaps it is felt also that his desire for a rearrangement of his domestic affairs is his own business alone.

If that is the idea of the eminent committee, it is a mistaken one. There is no nation that does not recognize the public nature in marriage and divorce. In Mr. Barrie's own country the elaborate marriage law is so strictly enforced that to unite a couple without banns or a license is a felony on the part of the clergyman. Every marriage record in the kingdom is filed in Somerset House. Anyone can obtain there a certificate of Mr. Barrie's marriage by paying 86 cents in fees. Marriage and divorce are a public concern and matter of public record.

Arguments might be made against printing any testimoney whatever in divorce cases, but it would be hard to find a convincing reason why the details should be suppressed in a particular case merely because one of the principals was a writer of great talent.

STRANGE!

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Where are you from?" inquired the New Yorker.

"Los Angeles," said the man from California.

"Oh, I see," exclaimed the Empire State inhabitant. "So you're from the West. Well, I've been West some myself. Now, last year I was out as far as Cleveland and stopped a while at Pittsburg. I was all around out West."

"Is that so?" said the man from Los Angeles with a great show of interest. "Well, I was up East myself not so very long ago. I was in Denver and Salt Lake City, and all around. It's strange we didn't meet."

HOW TO GET YOUR RIGHTS.

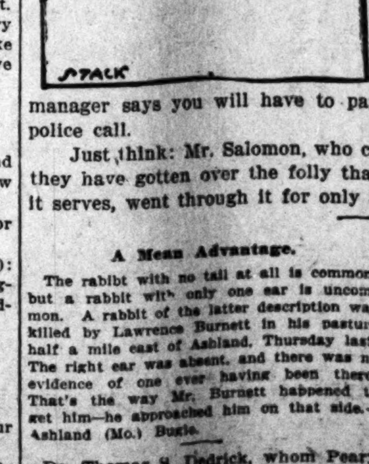

WILLIAM SALOMON, a New York millionaire, went out in the St. Louis West End the other day to see the famous apartment whose occupants have to drown one of the babies when the stork leaves twins. Somewhere out there his taxicab ran out of gasoline. Mr. Salomon considered that inasmuch as he had not been carried to his destination, he was not obligated for the fare for the distance he had ridden. The driver insisted upon collecting $1.40. "All right," said Mr. Salomon, "have me arrested." He was accommodated, and Judge Tracy discharged him.

In London a suffragette will not even say whether she thinks women ought to vote or not unless a bobby is listening. She knows very well that Right is as a rule unrecognizable until it is seen dragged away by the hair. They know this in all the riper communities, and it is time we knew it, too. The trouble with us is that we have a horror of arrest. We think it disgraceful. We do not know that it is good form and that Wrong only quails in his villainous boots when Right rattles past in the Black Maria.

How long would we suffer injustice in St. Louis if one heard everyday dialogue like this?

Conductor: Fare! Passenger: Not until I get a seat. Conductor (stopping the car): We'll see about that. Passenger (throwing the diamond hitch around his wrist with the strap): All right; have me arrested.

Farmer (who has just been hand-tooled in a barber shop near Union Station): What's my bill? Barber: Fourteen dollars. Farmer (dropping his wallet down his back): Won't pay it! Barber (locking the door): You'll have to pay it. Farmer: Bring on your policeman!

Customer (at gas office): This bill is not right. Clerk: What is the matter with it? Customer: It is twice as big as my bill last month, and I haven't used the gas stove this month half as much as I did last. Clerk (going behind partition, turning around six times and returning to the counter): The general manager says you will have to pay it. Customer: All right; turn in a police call.

Just think: Mr. Salomon, who comes from a part of the country where they have gotten over the folly that it is disgraceful to be arrested when it serves, went through it for only $1.40.

A Mean Advantage.

The rabbit with no tail at all is common, but a rabbit with only one ear is uncommon. A rabbit of the latter description was killed by Lawrence Burnett in his pasture half a mile east of Ashland, Thursday last. The right ear was absent, and there was no evidence of one ever having been there. That's the way Mr. Burnett happened to get him—he approached him on that side.—Ashland (Mo.) Bugle.

Dr. Thomas S. Dedrick, whom Peary put off amid the palms and pleasures of Blitzen Land in 1902, has his revenge. He got the first whack at the formal indictment.

Mr. Taft seems to have achieved the distinction of making the most unreadable presidential tour in the history of the republic.

Now we shall shiver for the lies we have been telling about the St. Louis climate.

Naturally, showing our hand is especially offensive to a poker player like Mr. Knox.

WHERE IS THE LIBEL?

From the Sioux City Tribune.

The Washington (Io.) Democrat, having said that Cannon "is a plain, cigar-smoking, whisky-drinking, old-fashioned Republican," the Burlington Hawkeye, shocked, rebukes the Democrat and warns it that, under Iowa's libel law, Uncle Joe has a ground of action against it, that being libelous which is "calculated to lower the person referred to in public estimation." It dares the Democrat "to say such a thing about the worst man in its own city."

But Uncle Joe will bring no libel against the Democrat. He has, as he says, troubles enough of his own. There is that Parsons ugly charge, for instance.

DR. HADLEY'S OPPORTUNITY.

From the New York Sun.

We wish that President Hadley would invite President Taft to deliver at New Haven a series of lectures on the "Proper Use of the Taxing Power." They might be instructive; they could not help being amusing, a happiness usually denied to the dismal science.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

Answers to Questions From Readers of the Post-Dispatch.

Write but one question. No bets decided. Business addresses not given. Legal questions must be simple. Address "Answers," Post-Dispatch, using postal cards when convenient.

ANXIOUS.—Ask the junk shops about tinfoil, etc.

MRS. HALL.—Write Mrs. C. C. Mustain, 3424 Morgan street.

A. B. C.—Phone drug stores for magnesia water information.

I. L.—"The Time, the Place and the Girl" was never at Havlin's.

XXX.—See Answers Sept. 28 and Oct. 10 for Halloween party and games.

A. B. C.—The horse of the Saint Louis Statue in Forest Park faces northeast.

V. G. WISE.—We know nothing more of coin premiums than is known at coin stores.

T. A. P.—Hanlon's Superba has often shown in St. Louis. Dates range back through many seasons.

LVX.—In auction penuchle if the bidder bids 300 and just melts 300 and does not take a trick after that, he wins.

M. A.—Henry Woodruff was at Joliet, Ill., Oct. 11, with "The Prince of Tonight." Letter could be forwarded from that place.

CHAS.—Zinci acitates, C. P., means zinc acetate chemically pure; succi limonis recenter expressi, lemon juice recently expressed.

N. R.—First practical use of electricity in carrying passengers in St. Louis was by the old Union Depot Railroad Co., in March, 1886.

L. M. R.—A girl not yet 18 years of age has no legal right to marry in Missouri without consent of parent. Better wait, anyhow; 18 itself is very young.

H. J.—Wedding presents always go to the bride; when marked they bear the initials of the maiden name; may be sent two or three weeks before wedding.

JERRY.—We don't know "the State in which it is easiest to get a divorce." Here a year's residence is necessary. In Texas, Nevada and Nebraska the residence time is six months.

ALGEBRA.—We know of no magazine devoted exclusively to mathematics. Have a talk with the newsdealers. They may perhaps tell you of some publication that is partly given to mathematics.

FANNIE.—Strange you have not read the repeated statement that crude petroleum is rubbed into the scalp to keep the hair from falling. Get nearer to the newspapers and absorb their infinite wisdom.

E. R. K.—Missouri having "a valued policy law," the company is compelled to pay you face value of policy in event of entire destruction of your building, unless some clause (legally allowable under the statutes) limiting such liability is attached thereto.

ANXIOUS READER.—The temperatures at which metals will melt are as follows: Wrought iron, 2900 degrees; platinum, 3080; gold, 2590; copper, 2548; steel, 2500; brass, 1900; silver, 1250, and lead, 594. We hardly think a range will give the heat required for your copper.

M. G.—Mental treatment was known and practiced long before Christian Science. Every good physician has used it more or less in his practice ever since Hippocrates and Esculapius. We remember a case in which a patient, merely by thinking about calomel, got the full benefit of a real dose.

B. W. C.—Salt melts ice. It is used in making ice cream because it causes ice to melt and lowers the freezing point of the resulting brine solution several degrees below the freezing point of water. In freezing weather, salt is used in car track switches to melt the ice so that the switch may be operated.

A. H. A.—Mortgagee can extend time of payment of the mortgage. Under the circumstances we see no use in appraising the property which would only run up costs to "A," who we do not believe will be successful, should "B" and mortgagee fight the case; and more so if "B" is the head of a family and claims all his exemptions under the law.

OLD WOMAN SUBSCRIBER.—There is no physical punishment for women in the Missouri Penitentiary. Of the 2150 prisoners only 60 are women; 40 of these women are negroes. Any friend of a convict who thinks a punishment too severe may appeal to the Board of Prison Inspectors, which consists of the Governor, Attorney-General, Auditor and Treasurer.

C. A. J.—To have a copper still of your own make, to make brandy from grapes, for your own use, you would have to pay $50 as manufacturer of the still, $50 for the still itself, and $20 for your worm. Furthermore you would have to pay the Government tax and give bond as a distiller. Have a talk with the polite and obliging revenue officials on the second floor of the Custom House, Eighth and Olive.

J. K.—Night schools opened Oct. 11. Regular studies evening high schools: English language and literature, algebra, geometry, physics, the elements of chemistry, drawing and bookkeeping. If 20 qualified pupils apply for instruction in a high school study of technological character, it is the intention to make provisions for them. For admission to evening high school a certificate of graduation from district evening school or other evidence of sufficient preparation is required. Free to all persons of night school age—14 to 20. Older pupils pay $1 a term.

BEYER.—Write Librarian of Congress, Washington, D. C., in regard to copyrighting a game; to the Patent Office if it is in patentable shape. Filing a caveat prevents, during its existence, the issue of a patent, without the knowledge of a caveator, to any person for a similar device. The caveator is entitled to receive official notice during one year for any petition for similar or interfering invention filed during that time. The caveator, when so notified, must complete his own notification within three months of date of notice. A caveat runs one year. It can be extended by paying $10 a year. Caveats can be filed in the United States by citizens only, or by aliens who have resided here one year and declared intention of becoming citizens.

A SUBSCRIBER.—Lice killers: 1. Soak head and scalp with a large tablespoonful of lard at night, tying a towel around the head to protect the pillow. In the morning wash the head. This kills the "nits" also. Perhaps the pork germs in the lard declare war on the other "bugs" and come out victorious. 2. Buy 10 or 15 cents worth of fishberries (whole) at druggist's. Break into small bits with hammer, add pint or more pure alcohol. Let stand 24 hours. Thoroughly wet scalp and head before retiring, tying the head up in a towel. Repeat two or three times. Fishberries are poisonous. Pick out all bits. 3. Saturate head and hair with coal oil for three or four hours; wash thoroughly in warm water with good soap. When dry wash again in good strong vinegar, drying without using towel. Next, wash again with soap and water. 4. Plain, strong camphor will clear vermin from the hair at the first application and kill all the "nits" —provided you use it freely. [illegible] well with it and comb out thoroughly with a fine-tooth comb. [illegible] old soldier says [illegible] is sure death to lice.

MRS. GITTENHUNK'S SYSTEM.

I GOT a hat today and had it charged. Oh, you needn't wrinkle your forehead and puff out your cheeks about it. Your forehead is wrinkled enough already from scowling all the time, heaven knows, and your cheeks are fat and jowly enough without distending them that way, and you don't scare me a little bit by doing those things, anyhow. I needed a fall hat and I got it, and, as I didn't have any money, why, I had it charged. That's all there is about it. Did you expect me to wait till December to get myself a fall hat? Did you think I intended to go around making a joke of myself by wearing a straw hat until after the Christmas holidays? Well, if you entertained any such notion as that, you see how mistaken you were, that's all. I'm all through making sacrifices of that kind. They're never appreciated, and, anyhow, there's no need for me to make such sacrifices. That slack business and poverty cry of yours isn't going to go down with me any more. I know different. I notice that you always have plenty of money to spend on your roystering, disreputable friends that keep you out until all hours of the night—heaven only knows where. And I notice, too, that when the time comes for you to get yourself a fall hat, why, you go and get it, without asking anybody's leave. Why shouldn't I do the same? Do you expect me to get down on my marrow-bones and beg you to let me go get myself a hat so that I won't be the laughing stock of all my friends? Well, then. How much did the hat cost? It cost $42, that's what it cost. Now look like somebody that's going to have a fit of apoplexy, do. You look so lovely with the veins of your forehead sticking out that way. A lot of money for just one hat! Don't say such things. You only show your ignorance. It was one of the cheapest hats they had in the place. If I'd been the kind of a woman that felt like rubbing it in, I could have taken the $90 hat they showed me; and that was so becoming to me. But I was considerate and took the cheap one, and all I get for my consideration is to see you sitting there scowling like somebody that's eaten a hatful of green apples. But go ahead and scowl. Scowling doesn't cost you anything, and I'm sure it doesn't bother me. Well, I should say not!

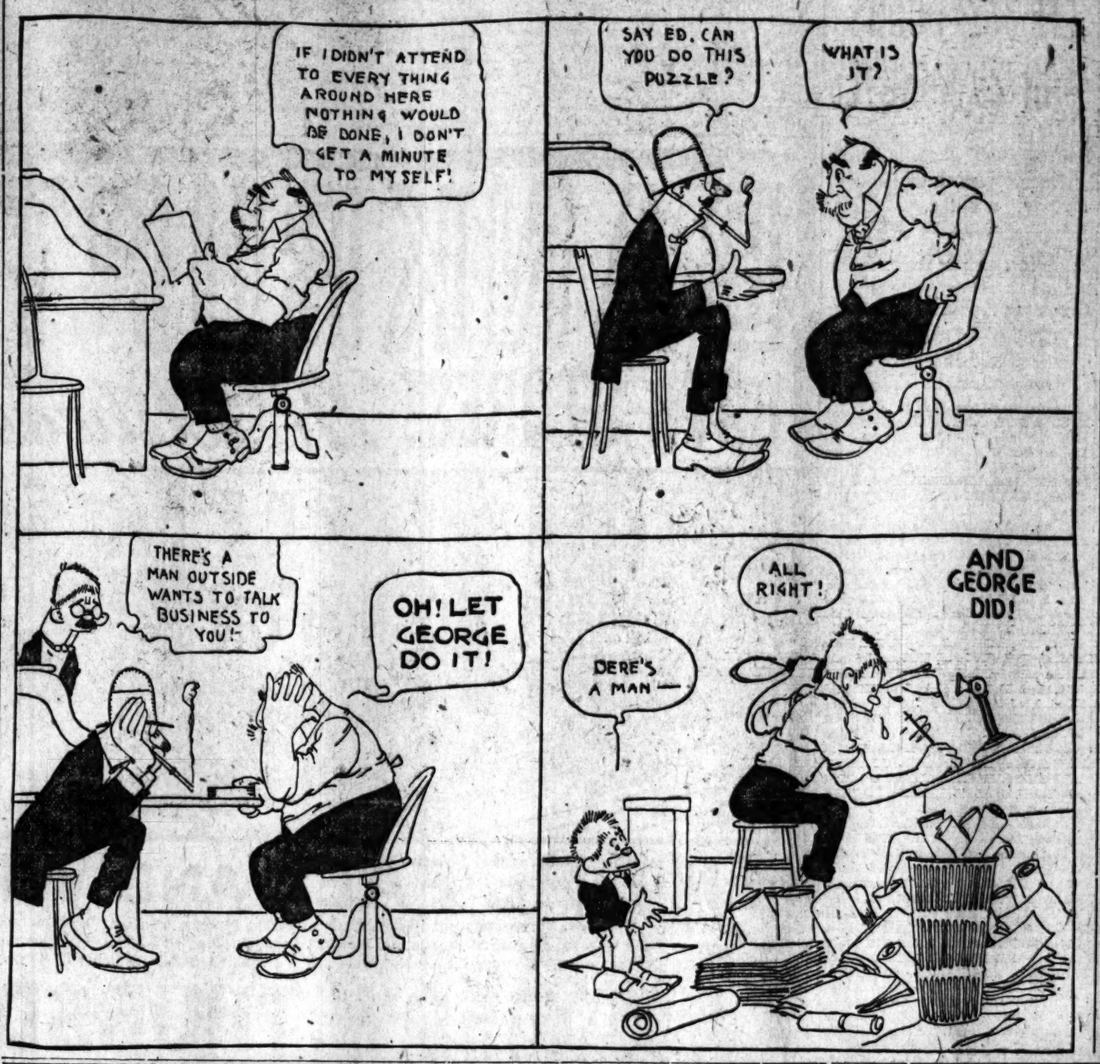

MRS. USENBUNK'S SYSTEM.

OH-O-OH, me! Oh, my! I've got something dreadfully orful to tell you! Pul-lease don't look so solemn, or I'll be 'fraid to tell you—I'm askeeart now! Well, dollykin, if you'll promise not to beat me all up so's I'll have to use arnica and things, why, I'll tell you. Promise? All right. Well, I bought the loveliest little hat today, the cutest little duck of a turban that you ever saw in all your born days, and the becomingest, too, and won't all of my friends just curl up and expire of greeny-weeny envy when they see me with it on! I know you'll go perfectly mad over it yourself, duckty, because it's such a teenchy little bit of a thing, and I know how you do hate those big hats, and I thought of you every minute I was buying it, 'deed I did, because you have such perfect taste in these things. I wonder, by the way, you big, hulking, secretive creature, where you ever developed that keen taste of yours in women's hats and things? That's it, grin in that sheepish way of yours! 'Deed I'm just terribly jealous of the girls you must have known—millions of 'em, I'm sure—before you met me. Honest, now, did you ever really care for any of them? Oh, of course, you wouldn't admit if you did! But, doll face, just you wait till you see me in my new turban! I'll bet you'll care for me just a teeny-weeny little bit then! How? How much did it cost? Now, dearie, don't be cross, will you? It really wasn't expensive, considering how perfectly scrumptious it is. Only $42. Why, it's the bargainest bargain that I ever saw in my life, really. They had some turbans there for $90 and $100 that weren't anything like so attractive and becoming. How? Why, yes, petite, I had it charged, of course. Pul-lease, Mister Man, don't beat me, will you? They were perfectly willing to charge it, and I knew you'd be so tickled with it, and so I thought I might just as well get it right away and not wait till I had the money. Oh, I can hardly wait till they send it up! It shows my hair so nicely, you know, and I am perfectly certain that you'll just stand on your dear old head when you see it.

JEWS IN AMERICA.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By REV. MADISON C. PETERS.

THE first Jewish settlers in New Amsterdam whose names have been handed down were Jacob Abonf, who arrived Nov. 9, 1654, in the ship Pear Tree. They were followed in the same year by a party of 23, who arrived in the bark St. Catrina, from Brazil (the part of America first inhabited by a large number of Jews), abandoning Brazil when the Dutch evacuated that country, and once again in all possible haste they sought the shelter of a Dutch colony.

The following spring other Jews arrived, and the expulsion of the Jews from Brazil, increasing the Jewish residents in New York, gave ground for the belief that their number would grow enormously. The bigoted Governor, Peter Stuyvesant, requested the Director of the West India Company in Amsterdam, "that none of the Jewish nation be permitted to infest the New Netherlands." The answer was worthy of tolerant Holland—that his request "was inconsistent with reason and justice." Incensed at Stuyvesant's unwarranted assumption of authority, an act was passed permitting the Jews to reside and trade in New Netherlands so long as they cared for their own poor. The Jews, down to date, have splendidly kept that promise.

(Among the more than one million Jews in New York City, there were a year or two ago only 26 pauper Jews in the Almhouse, of whom the majority were afflicted with some peculiar defect which precluded their admission to the existing Jewish charitable institutions, which cover almost every conceivable case of need and suffering.)

In 1655 D'Andrade was denied the privilege of holding real estate. During the same year the Dutch Governor refused De Lucena permission to prepare a burial ground for the Jews. A few months later this decision was revoked. An interesting example of the "good old times" is the fact that the Pilgrim Fathers appealed in vain to the Dutch Government for permission to settle in the American domains before the Plymouth settlement was made.

In 1664 the city was captured by the English and its name changed to New York, in honor of the Duke of York. The charter of liberties and privileges adopted by the Colonial Assembly in 1683 extended religious freedom to all but the Jews. The Jews' petition "for liberty to exercise their religion" was referred to Gov. Dongan, who decided that only those who "profess faith in Christ are tolerated by act of Assembly to hold public worship."

When James, Duke of York, became King James II, Gov. Andros permitted "freedom of worship to all persons of whatever religion," and in 1685 a synagogue was built on the north side of Mill street, a street no longer in existence.

The prohibition against the Jews going into retail trade was a Dutch law, which somehow remained operative under English law. This was gradually dropped, for we find Jews engaged in retail trade in the early part of the eighteenth century. One of the great merchants of this period (about 1725-1730) was Hayman Levy, who traded with the Indians. John Jacob Astor acquired his first experience in the fur trade while in Levy's employ. Upon his books are entries of moneys paid to John Jacob Astor, beating furs at 8 a day. Nicholas Low, ancestor of Seth Low, served as Levy's clerk for seven years, and then laid the foundation of his great fortune in a hogshead of rum purchased from his former employer, who besides rendered substantial assistance.

On the question concerning the contested seat of Col. Frederick Phillips of Westchester County, the General Assembly of New York on Sept. 22, 1737, resolved that Jews could neither vote for representatives nor be admitted as witnesses.

By the first Constitution of the State of New York, adopted in 1777, the Jews were put on absolute equality with all other citizens. New York was the first State actually granting full religious liberty.

THE PLUMBER: A Monologue.

Realistic Exposition of How Not to Do Necessary Work.

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By ROY L. McCARDELL.

The Honest Artisan Is Sitting Surrounded by a Collection of Hammers and Wrenches, the Bathroom Tiling Is Torn Up, a Blow-Torch Sings Merrily Nearby, All Pipes Are Disconnected Except the One the Plumber Is Smoking.

"NO, lady, I can't tell you when I'll be through. Whoever put this plumbing in before was a ham. A lot of them bum mechanics is going around in this town obtaining money under false pretenses. I've seen them guys jam a right-hand nut on a left-hand thread and get away with it. It's them trade schools what does it. They start out a lot of kids and gives them gall enough to call themselves plumbers before they know how to wipe a joint.

"Your husband tried to buy a faucet and the supply houses wouldn't sell him one? Sure, what right has he to go spend 50 cents and put a working man out of a $30 job?

"Them supply houses would be blacklisted by the trade if they sold anybody not in the business a red rubber washer. Why? Because plumbers is got to protect themselves or first thing you know ev'y janitor that owned a Stilson wrench would be beating us plumbers out of two-day jobs for 50-cent tips.

"Why don't I go ahead? Now, look here, lady, I ain't goin' to be rude to you, but if you interfere I'll call it off and you won't never get it done. Anyway, my helper is gone back to the shop for a left-hand monkey wrench.

"That little boy ought to be in school? Who, my helper? Say, his parents know whether he's sixteen or not, and he's old enough to be charged in the bill at a man's wages. Here he is now. Say, kid, what was your hurry? And I knew you wouldn't bring any red lead! I didn't tell you to bring any red lead? You never mind whether I told you or not. You put down that wrench and go back to the shop and tell Joe to let you have some red lead, and don't go running yourself blue in the face! What help are you to me, holding a candle or handing me things, if you're all out of breath?

"Do I want any rosin? If I want any rosin I'll tell you when you come back. Don't be too previous, kid. That's what spoiled many a good plumber.

"What's that, lady? Will I get the tiling down just as it was. No, ma'am, I won't. I don't lay no tiles. That's a tile layer's job. Well, I had to take them up to see what was wrong with the pipe, didn't I? I want to tell you now, while we are about it, you ought to tear out this line and put in better-grade stuff. All this plumbing is seconds. I could make a good job of it.

"How much would it cost? How can I tell you? The material I could give you an estimate on, but the time is a different matter. No plumber can tell you how much time he can put in on a job till the job's finished. My firm does a lot of work for the city and we'll treat you right. That 'minds me of a funny crack our boss made when Clancy, the political undertaker, asks him if the work he is doing on the municipal courts is exposed plumbing, and the boss says not yet, but the reformers 'll expose it if they get the chance.

"Don't turn out that blow torch, little boy. I may need it in a minute. I knew a little boy what set himself on fire with a blow torch and his parents kicked when the plumber put in his bill for the time goin' to the little feller's funeral. Like as if it was the plumber's fault that the job was held up. The plumber was on the job, and when a plumber is on a job his time and his helper's time is charged to the job. So, lady, your little boy better keep away from that torch. Besides, if he upsets it and spills any gasoline, gasoline'll cost you 20 cents a gallon. Oh, yes, automobile gasoline is much cheaper than plumber's gasoline.

"How much is them washers? Five cents apiece. You can get them at the 10-cent store for 5 cents a dozen? That's nothing to me, lady. If you're sore about it you'd better do your own plumbing.

"Here's my helper with the rosin. Hi, kid, pile the tools in the corner. By the time I get my overalls off and go out in the kitchen and wash me hands it will be 5 o'clock and time to knock off.

"When will I get the job done? How do I know, lady? You've had things upset this way three days and ain't been able to use your bathtub? Why, say, lady, what's your kick? The bathing season's over!

"No, I won't be here Monday. I'm goin' out to see the torpedo boats. G'night!"

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Two friends whose love for pirates is a common bond, Thomas Ardmore of New York and Ardsley and Prof. Griswold, separate in Atlanta, the first to follow the trail of a girl who winked at him as his train passed hers and the professor to go back to his duties in the University of Virginia. Ardmore finds his girl is Miss Geraldine Osborne, daughter of the Governor of South Carolina, and goes with her to Columbia. Griswold meets Miss Dangerfield, daughter of the Governor of North Carolina, and goes with her to Raleigh. On their respective trains Ardmore and Griswold are mistaken by countrymen for Govs. Osborne and Dangerfield and warned to let an outlaw, Bill Appleweight, alone under pain of death. The governors are in hiding because they fear to deal with the Appleweight case, over which the people are divided and their daughters become acting governors with Ardmore and Griswold acting in advisory capacities to them. Neither knows of the other's new field of activity and they exchange hot telegrams in the names of the Governors. Ardmore and Griswold, with the Governor's daughters, go severally into the Appleweight country, which is near Ardsley to arrest him. Griswold organizes a band of Appleweight's enemies, who seize him as he comes from church. They leave him for a moment and Miss Dangerfield, who has fled from the attentions of the Duke of Ballywinkle (Ardmore's brother-in-law), finds him. She leads his horse (on which Appleweight is bound) into the forest.

CHAPTER XIV.

A Meeting of Old Friends.

HABERSHAM'S men had proved exceedingly timid when it came to the business of threshing the woods for Appleweight, whom they regarded with a new awe, now that he had vanished so mysteriously. They had searched the woods guardedly, but the narrow paths that led away into the dim fastnesses of Ardsley were forbidding, and these men were not without their superstitions. They had awaited for years an opportunity to strike at the Appleweight faction; they had at last taken their shot, and had seemingly brought down their bird; but their lack of spirit in retrieving the game had been their undoing.

"We ought to have taken him away on the run," said Habersham bitterly, as he and Griswold discussed the matter on the veranda of the prosecuter's house and watched the coming of the dawn.

"I didn't realize that those fellows lived in such mortal terror of the old man; but they refused to make off with him until the last of his friends had got well out of the way. I ought to have had more sense myself than to have expected the old fox to sit tied up like a calf ready for market. We had all his friends accounted for—those that weren't at prayer meeting were marked down somewhere else, and we had a line flung pretty well round the church. Appleweight's deliverance must have come from somewhere inside the Ardmore property. Perhaps the game warden picked him up."

At 8 o'clock he and Habersham rode into Turner Courthouse and Griswold went at once to the inn to change his clothes. No further steps could be taken until some definite report was received as to Appleweight's whereabouts. The men who had attempted the outlaw's capture had returned to their farms and were most demurely cultivating the soil. Griswold was thoroughly disgusted at the ridiculous failure of Habersham's plans, and not less severe upon himself for failing to push matters to a conclusion the moment the outlaw was caught, instead of hanging back to await the safe dispersion of the Mount Nebo congregation.

As he crossed the musty parlor of the little hotel to his great astonishment Miss Osborne's black Phoebe, stationed where her eyes ranged the whole lower floor of the inn, drew attention to herself in an elaborate courtesy.

As he started out into the street a negro brought a horse bearing a better saddle than Mingo County had ever boarded, and hitched it near the horse he had secured for himself. An instant later he heard a quick step above and Miss Osborne, sedately followed by the black woman, came downstairs. She smiled and greeted him cordially, but there was trouble in her brown eyes.

"I didn't warn you of my coming. I didn't want to be a nuisance to you, but there's a new—a most unaccountable perplexity. It doesn't seem right to burden you with it—you have already been so kind about helping me; but I dare not turn to our oldest friends—I have been afraid to trust father's friends at all since Mr. Bosworth acted so traitorously."

She drew from her purse a cutting from a newspaper and handed it to him.

"That's from last night's Columbia Vidette, which is very hostile to my father."

Mr. was already running over the heavily leaded column that set forth without equivocation the fact that Gov. Osborne had not been in Columbia since he went to New Orleans. It scouted the story that he was abroad in the State on official business connected with the Appleweight case—the yarn which Griswold had forced upon the friendly reporter at the telegraph office in Columbia. The Governor of a State, the Vidette went on to elaborate, could not vanish without leaving some trace of himself, and a Vidette representative had traced the steps of Gov. Osborne from New Orleans until he had again entered South Carolina under cover of night and for purposes which, for the honor of the State, the Vidette hesitated to disclose.

The writer of the article had exhausted the possibilities of gentle suggestion and vague innuendo in an effort to create an impression of mystery and to pique curiosity as to further developments, which were promised at any hour. Griswold's wrath was aroused, not so much against the newspaper, which he assumed had some fire for its smothered trifle of smoke, but against the Governor of South Carolina himself, who was causing the finest and noblest girl in the world infinite anxiety and pain.

"The thing is preposterous," he said lightly. "The idea that your father would attempt to enter his own State surreptitiously is inconceivable in these days when public men are denied all privacy, and when it's any man's right to deceive the press if he finds it essential to his own comfort and peace; but the intimation that your father is in South Carolina for any dishonorable purpose is preposterous. One thing, however, is certain, Miss Osborne, and that is that we must produce your father at the earliest possible moment."

"But"—and Barbara hesitated, and her eyes, near tears as they were, wrought great havoc in Griswold's soul—"but father must not be found until this Appleweight matter is settled. You understand without making me speak the words—that he might not exactly view the matter as we do."

It was too delicate a matter for discussion; it was a thing to be ignored, and he assumed at once a lighter tone.

"Come! We must solve the riddle of the lost prisoner at once, and your father will undoubtedly give an excellent account of himself when he gets ready. Meanwhile the fiction that he is personally carrying the war into the Appleweight country must be maintained, and I shall step to the railway station and wire the Columbia newspaper in his name that he is in Mingo County on the trail of the outlaws."

"We are quite near the state of your friend, Mr. Ardmore, aren't we?" asked Barbara presently.

"I fancy we are," replied Griswold, but with a tone so coldly at variance with his previous cordial references to the master of Ardsley that Barbara looked at him inquiringly.

"I'm sorry that I should have given you the impression, Miss Osborne, that Mr. Ardmore and our friendship as I undoubtedly did at Columbia. He has, for some unaccountable reason, cut my acquaintance in a manner so unlike him that I do not pretend to explain it, nor, I may add, is it of the least importance."

"I was a little surprised," returned Barbara, with truly feminine instinct for minishing in the balm of consolation the bitterest and most poisonous herbs. "But you should have had for a friend a man who frankly follows girls whose appearance he fancies. Even Mr. Ardmore's democratic enthusiasm for the down-trodden laundry girl does not wholly mitigate the winking episode."

"He had, only a few days ago, invited me to visit him, though I had been to his house so often that the obsequent servant knew that I was privileged even beyond the members of Mr. Ardmore's own family in my freedom of the place. When I saw that his house would be a convenient point from which to study the Appleweight situation, I wired him that I was on the way, and to my utter amazement he replied that he could not entertain me—that scarlet fever was epidemic on the estate—on those almost uncounted acres!"

And with a gulp and a mist in his eyes, Griswold drew rein and pointed, from a hill that had now borne them to a considerable height, toward Ardsley itself, dreamily basking in the bright morning sunlight within its cincture of hills, meadows and forest.

"I never saw the place before! It's perfectly splendid!" cried Barbara, forgetting that Griswold must be gazing upon it with the eyes of an exile viewing grim, forbidding battlements that once hailed him in welcome.

What To Do For a Cough

Here is a home-made remedy that overcomes an obstinate cough quicker than any costly medicine you could buy. Any woman can easily make it in five minutes:

Granulated Sugar Syrup	13½ oz.
Pinex	2½ oz.

Put the Pinex in a clean pint bottle and fill up with the syrup, made as follows: Take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir for about 2 minutes. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. It tastes pleasant—children like it.

This simple medicine is also splendid for colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, incipient consumption, chest pains, etc.

Pinex, as you probably know, is the most potent form of Norway White Pine Compound. It is rich in all the well-known pine elements. None of the weaker pine preparations compare with the real Pinex itself. Your druggist has it or will gladly get it for you.

The full pint of this effective cough syrup can be made for 54 cents. It keeps perfectly, and lasts a whole family a long time.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.—Adv.

TOWN CLOSES SALOONS AND CLEANS HOUSE FOR ONE MAN

Now Community Wants Lighting Plant and Sewer System He Promised.

HUDSON, O., Oct. 12.—This town will be in a position to expect James W. Ellsworth when he returns from Italy in three weeks to carry out the promise he made the village on condition it would vote out the saloons and put the telephone wires under ground.

The village has gone even further. It has painted its homes white, with the shutters green, put red tiles on the roofs and planted English hedges, because Ellsworth said he liked these things.

Now the villagers anticipate that Ellsworth will make good his pledges to give the village an electric lighting plant, waterworks and sewer system; pay for it himself and transfer it to the village to own and operate.

INVENTS GLIDING BOAT TO BE USED ON WESTERN RIVERS

"Aquaplane" Slides on Shallow Water, Instead of Plowing—30 Miles an Hour Claimed.

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 12.—S. M. Howard of Gettysburg, this State, has been for some time working on the model of a boat by which he believes he can revolutionize traffic on Western rivers.

He calls his invention the "Aquaplane," and the principle is a device which will cause the boat to glide upon the surface of the water, instead of cutting its way through with a sharp prow. His estimate is that he can make 30 miles or more an hour with the boat.

Howard will make the first test of his new boat on the Missouri River at Forcat City.

CLOCK HITS OFF 372 HOURS IN 25 MINUTES

Natives Think Devil Is In the Belfry When It Goes on a Strike.

WHOLE TOWN UPSET

Columbus Day Adds One More Chapter to the Place's Freak History.

Consternation was king in Alton for 25 minutes Tuesday afternoon—25 minutes by the town clock. As in the whimsical tale of Edgar Allan Poe, the devil got up into the belfry and made every peaceful burgher within ten blocks and wonder what time it was.

An amazed burgher, who bears an enviable reputation for veracity among his neighbors, vows that it was 372 o'clock when he keeled over and quit counting.

In the actual Dutch borough of the tale it was only 13 o'clock, yet the whole town went awry and outside aid was implored to help set things right again. Consider, then, the upset state into which Alton was plunged when it got to be 372 p. m. by the town clock.

"What's the trouble?" yelled the baker opposite the City Hall, running up out of his basement, watch in hand, to glance at the twon clock that glanced down at him from one of its four faces in the cupalo.

Out of his newspaper shop came the scrivener, out of his chambers the advocate, out of his office the man of medicine, each holding watch in hand and glancing fearsomely at the town clock.

"It must be Oct. 27 now," soliloquized the burgher who had counted up to 372 and divided it by 24. "According to that, I'm in San Francisco, for I expected to start there Oct. 23. I wonder if this is an earthquake?"

Meanwhile, up in the belfry tower of the City Hall, or the House of the Town Council, a strange scene was being enacted. Ellis Bernard, official Keeper of the Great Timepiece, had climbed up into the belfry to ascertain what complaint the clock had to make, since it had gone on strike. Burgher Bernard was ready for arbitration or anything—even palpitation.

Far up above the clockworks Bernard descried Jacob Maguire, official sweeper of decks, sometimes called janitor of the House of the Town Council. Jacob was leaning far out on the windowsill and shaking forth the American flag with a royal will. He had just nailed the flag to the sill, in honor of Christopher Columbus, who discovered Alton along with the rest of America, Oct. 12, 1492, though he never claimed the honor until many years after his death.

"Aha, up there!" shouted Bernard.

"Avast below!" responded Maguire.

"Say, Jake, did you strike this clock with your flagstaff on the way up and knock the strikin' rat out?" asked Bernard, picking up the "rat" from the floor.

WOMAN WITNESSES FIGHT IN WHICH TWO MEN ARE STABBED

She Declares She Called Her Husband to Make Peace, and He Is Cut.

In a three-cornered fight at Broadway and Spruce street Tuesday night, one man used a knife and Jacob Reifschneider, 25 years old, of 3370 South Second street, is at the City Hospital, with three serious wounds, and Harry Burke, 32, of 415 South Sixth street, is locked up in Central District holdover with three slight wounds. Mrs. Kate Burke, his wife, is also held by the police, but the man who did the cutting escaped.

The fight occurred at 11:45 p. m. and was witnessed by Mrs. Burke from the doorway of her home. She told the police that Reifschneider and another man passed her house quarreling. Reifschneider's companion carried a knife in his hand, she said.

A few doors from her home the men began fighting and Mrs. Burke called to her husband, who was in the house. She says her husband merely acted as peacemaker and in the struggle was stabbed by Reifschneider's companion.

Reifschneider told the police Burke had assaulted him, and that the third man, whom, he said, he does not know, interfered.

Burke had no weapon when arrested. His wounds are on his head, right shoulder and back. Reifschneider was stabbed in the back, side and hand. The third man, who is described as 27 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, 150 pounds, dark complexion and black suit.

COURT GIVES ATTORNEY FOR MORSE SCANT HOPE FOR BAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Charles W. Morse consulted yesterday Justices Lacombe, Warde and Coxe of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals regarding the prospect of obtaining the release of Morse on bail during the 40 days' stay of sentence which the court granted on Monday, when it affirmed Morse's conviction and his sentence to 15 years' imprisonment.

The justices told Mr. Littleton that he need hold no very high hope of the granting of an application for bail, as it was only in the most unusual cases that the Court of Appeals would permit the bailing of a man whose sentence had been affirmed.

Mr. Littleton then went to the Tombs and talked with Morse. The banker had spent a much-disturbed night, pacing up and down the floor of his cell and complaining of a sharp pain in his side. The Warden summoned Dr. Levin and Morse was given a sleeping draft that brought him a much-needed rest during the forenoon.

ON TRIAL FOR ATTACKING GIRL

Man of 52 Served Two Terms for Crimes Like One Charged.

Talesmen were examined Wednesday in Circuit Judge McElhinney's court at Clayton for the trial of Elmer Clark on the charge of attacking Hazel Kunts, 9 years old, of University City, April 19. The prosecution has looked up Clark's record and found that he has served two terms in the Missouri Penitentiary for similar crimes. He was convicted on May 1, 1891, and sentenced for two years. On April 3, 1898, he received a sentence of 19 years. Both crimes were committed in St. Louis. Clark is about 52 years old.

MOTHER IS CHARGED WITH TRYING TO BURY BABY ALIVE

Policeman Sees Body Being Covered With Dirt—"Putting It to Bed," She Says.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Mary Marshall of 480 Rodney street, Brooklyn, was held by Magistrate Furlong in $1000 bail yesterday for further examination, charged with attempting to bury her infant alive. An additional charge of intoxication was also entered.

Policeman van Houten testified that he saw Mrs. Marshall carefully dig a grave and put her 3-weeks-old child into it. Then, the policeman continued, Mrs. Marshall covered the tiny body with dirt. The baby cried vehemently.

Mrs. Marshall testified that she was merely "putting the baby to bed." She said she had no recollection of digging the grave.

RICH BRIDE OF 65 DESERTED BY YOUNG HUSBAND

Former Spinstetr Believes Deserter Has Another Wife and Children.

HAD BRIEF COURTSHIP

Quarreled Within a Week After Arranging to Buy Livery Business.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The romance of Miss Jeanette Suffern, an aged wealthy woman of Suffern, N. Y., who until three weeks ago was a spinster, ended with the disappearance of Robert Hiscock, her much younger husband, six days after his marriage.

While the deserted bride is hoping that her husband will return and satisfactorily explain his absence, a young and pretty mother of children is mourning the loss of Robert John Rutherford Hiscock, who deserted her in 1905, since when she has lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson, at 277 West 155th street.

That the man who deserted his elderly bride and the man who deserted the younger woman in this city is one and the same person many people doubt. The former Miss Suffern is not one of the doubters.

Miss Suffern and Robert Hiscock met in Ridgewood, N. J., and were married Sept. 23 by Justice of the Peace John Keys of Paterson, N. J. The bride is 65 years old. The husband gave his age as 34. David Tobin, manager of Van Horn's livery stable at Ridgewood, told how it came about.

"Miss Suffern is well known here," said Tobin. "She drives about the country with a pair of ponies and she often left her team here. Two or three times she asked me if I was married and I told her I was. On Sept. 23 she asked me that question again, and I told I believed she wanted a good husband. She said she did and asked me to find her one.

"I had a man working in the livery stable named Robert Hiscock. I asked him if he wanted to marry a woman with plenty of money. He said he did and I introduced him to Miss Suffern. They drove to Paterson and were married.

"Hisecck got the notion that he wanted to buy out this livery business, and six days after they were married they took me to New York to buy a couple of moving vans. Hiscock bought one in Forty-ninth street, Brooklyn, and Mrs. Hiscock paid $500 for it.

"Hiscock and his wife quarreled that night, Mrs. Hiscock has since told me, and he went to the man he bought the van of and sold it back for $450 cash. Mrs. Hiscock told me later that she had heard that her husband had another wife and two children living, and she feared she would never see him again. 'If he had only told me,' she said, 'I might have arranged to take care of his other family.'"

Deciding to be married berore returning to Rolla, Mr. McNair and Miss Ohnsorg obtained Mrs. Ohnsorg's consent and the ceremony was performed Oct. 2 at the Nelson home, the Rev. Dr. Wise, pastor of the Church of the Holy Communion, officiating.

INDICTED BROKER DIES OF HEMORRHAGE ON A FARM

Chenier Was Guest of Barney Schreiber When Fatally Stricken.

The funeral of Antoine Joseph Chenier, president of the Merchants' Stock and Grain Co., who died at Barney Schreiber's stock farm in St. Louis County of hemorrhage of the lungs, will be held from St. Francis Xavier's Church Thursday morning. Chenier was under indictment on a charge of conducting a bucket shop. He was arrested two weeks ago with five others on bench warrants, which were followed by indictments.

Chenier has been associated with the Cella interests in the brokerage business for several years. His indictment was the result of investigations made by Policeman Ben Heckel, who in plain clothes speculated in Chenier's place. Heckel testified before the grand jury, which asked that warrants be issued. On testimony that Chenier's company was not in a position to make deliveries on its sales, the indictments were returned.

Chenier was released on bond and had since been spending much of his time at Schreiber's farm.

ST. LOUIS TYPOTHETAE TO BE REPRESENTED AT CONGRESS

Employing Printers Will Adopt Standard Method of Figuring Costs.

St. Louis Typothetae will send a delegation to the first international "cost congress" called by the Chicago Typothetae and the Ben Franklin Club of Chicago to meet at the Auditorium Hotel in Chicago, Oct. 18, 19 and 20.

There will be represented at the conference United Typothetae, Printers' Boards of Trade, Ben Franklin Club, Master Printers' Associations and various other organizations of employing and contracting printers.

The object of the conference will be to adopt some standard method of figuring the cost of printing, so that both the printer and his customer will be protected. Other matters of interest to the industry will be discussed, but the main business will be the plan for standardizing cost computations.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press. In addition it maintains a leased wire to its New York Bureau. WANTS TO CONNECT HIS MINES BY AEROPLANES

Has Two Sites 20 Miles Apart, but Two Days Travel Separates Them.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—An interesting inquiry was today made of Wilbur Wright by G. A. Dunca, a mining engineer, in charge of properties in Nevada and Arizona. He has two properties within sight of each other and 20 miles apart, but it takes two days and a half by horseback and railroad to get from one to the other. He was much interested in the possibility of using an aeroplane for this cross-country flight.

In a great many localities in the Southwest, he believes an aeroplane could be used to explore regions where it is impossible to go either by horseback or motor car.

Mr. Wright did not give him much encouragement, but said in the course of two or three years flying machines would probably be built so that they could be used for cross-country flights in the desert mining regions.

NO CLYDE FITCH WILL IS FOUND; FATHER GETS ESTATE

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A careful search has failed to reveal any will left by Clyde Fitch, the playwright, who died recently in France, and under the law, his estate will go to his father, William G. Fitch of Hartford, Conn., as his heir-at-law. Legal steps to this end will be taken within a few days.

No estimate of the playwright's estates has been made public. Many of his friends believe that he possessed real estate and securities in excess of a million dollars, while others declare he was not a rich man and that, although his income from his plays had been enormous, he had spent large sums for the benefit of others.

To You Who Are ONLY HALF WELL

What would you give to be robust, instead of sickly —to feel spirited instead of lazy—to walk with a springy, confident step, instead of with effort?

Would you drink a healthful drink three times a day if it were attractive, delicious and pure?

Thousands have been drinking FER-MIL-LAC all summer, simply because of its charming flavor.

It's the most popular drink in St. Louis, because people like the taste of it.

Thousands are now, on account of this drink, better fitted for winter's cold and dampness.

For this drink does what no other drink can do, and does it in a most pleasant way.

It is wonderful for people over 50.

We Are the Sole Producers of FER-MIL-LAC.

The St. Louis Dairy Co.'s Delicious

FER-MIL-LAC

Cultured Milk

What FER-MIL-LAC Is

It is simply whole milk—with all of the butter fat—all of the solids in it.

We get the milk from our famous Walker Gordon Farms. Then we ferment it and "process" it, actually pre-digesting it. Thus we bring out the enticing flavor.

We next add a pure Bulgarian culture imported direct from the Pasteur Institute—a friendly germ that does wonders for the entire system.

What It Does

Healthy as well as sick people carry these disease germs around with them.

They throw off toxic poisons which are taken into the blood.

When the body is strong and the blood right these poisons are neutralized.

But when either is weak they are dangerous.

The Health Germ contained in FER-MIL-LAC kills all the disease germs it meets.

The blood is made pure and clean.

One is almost immune from disease after he drinks a few glasses of FER-MIL-LAC. People who have been half well for years begin to pick up almost as soon as they start it. In a few weeks they feel well. But they seldom give up drinking FER-MIL-LAC because they have come to like it so much. They keep on and enjoy it daily.

Test FER-MIL-LAC at the club, or any buffet, fountain or restaurant.

Family orders delivered daily.

POLICE FIND ALL BUT HEAD OF SLAIN GIRL

Other Parts of Dismembered Body Picked Up In Two States.

IDENTITY NOT KNOWN

Parts Distributed Along Rhode Island Road Used by Autos.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TIVERTON, R. I., Oct. 13.—No murder which has been committed in this State in many years has aroused a greater interest or feeling of horror than the one of which the woman, a portion of whose legs were found Monday, and whose dismembered and beheaded torso was found yesterday afternoon, was the victim.

The police of two states—Rhode Island, in which so much of the body has been found, and Massachusetts, near the borders of which the grewsome discoveries were made—are exerting every effort to solve the mystery, while practically every man, woman and child in this town, Providence, Fall River, New Bedford and Newport, has turned detective and is trying to discover what young woman who answers to so much of a description as can be given of the victim of the crime is missing.

Like Another Famous Case.

The finding of the torso has been of material benefit in the way of eliminating from further consideration the theory advanced that the dead girl might have met a fate similar to that of Susie Geary of Cambridge, Mass., who died as the result of an illegal operation and whose body was dismembered and thrown into Boston Harbor in the hope of concealing the original crime.

The girl who was killed and whose dismembered body was distributed along the highway known as Bulgermarsh road, the highway most patronized by automobilists traveling between Newport and New Bedford, was not the victim of an illegal practitioner, a superficial examination of the torso shows.

The examination of the torso by Dr. E. P. Stimson, the medical examiner, further satisfies him that the victim of this crime was much younger than he had thought from the inspection of the left leg and part of the right leg and the examination also shows that she had not been the victim of a criminal assault, at least not recently, thereby disposing of another theory which had been advanced as a possible explanation of the crime.

The torso provided Dr. Stimson with something tangible on which to base a judgment as to the probable age of the deceased and gave him data on which to calculate her weight and height in life. Dr. Stimson found that it was apparently that of a small, well nourished young woman, who, he thinks, could not have been more than 25 years of age at the most and who, he would not be surprised to learn, was under 20, perhaps as young as 17 or 18. He also reached the conclusion that the girl did not weigh much over 100 pounds, if she weighed that much, and that she probably was not over 4 feet 10 inches in height, certainly not more than 5 feet.

Neither on the torso, the left leg nor the half of the right leg was there found the slightest blemish, such as a mole, a scar or a birthmark which would be of material benefit in establishing the identity of the dead girl. Every inch of flesh of the body that has been found has been carefully scrutinized in the hope of finding some little thing which might permit a relative or friend to identify her, but without result.

Head Still Missing.

While the police profess both in this town and in the Massachusetts and Rhode Island cities, from any of which it is possible that the girl may have come, that they are hopeful of solving the mystery soon, they do not undertake to explain how they hope to do it without recovering the head of the girl.

Dr. Stimson is optimistic over the probable outcome of the general hunt now being made for the missing head and arms and has a feeling that they will be found. He says that he is confident that when the head is found that the murderer will be under arrest within the following 24 hours.

The police learned last night of the finding of a bundle of clothing in the Apponegansett River, close to Padanaram bridge, New Bedford, near the spot where Ida Howard was murdered. They think it possible there may be some connection between the bundle of clothing, which contains both men's and women's wear, and the tragedy under investigation, especially as there are dark stains on some of the garments, which were tied in an oilskin and weighted down with stones. This bundle does not show indications of having been long in the river. In it were some collars bearing the laundry mark "3-319."

Another discovery made in connection with the case is that on the upper half of the telescope bag in part of which the portions of legs were found, there was some writing, apparently done with a blue crayon or an indelible pencil, on the inside of the cover, and some who saw the cover a short time after the police got hold of it said they could make out the name of a man named Hill, who lives in Fall River, and also the name "Fall River."

Acting City Marshal Fleet of the Fall River police, stated, however, that the only legible thing that could be made out of the writing on the cover was "Hil," which he thought had been the surname, or part of it, and that the final "l" had been rubbed or worn off. The Marshal said there had been a given name written before "Hil," but what it had been could not be determined by a careful examination with a magnifying glass.

MARK TWAIN REFUSES TO HELP REFORM THE CONGO

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Mark Twain, in a message to the Daily Express, wishing success to the agitation for reform in the administration of the Congo, says:

"I would be glad, if I were able, to take an active part in your crusade, but I am obliged to refrain from entering into the matter at this time. The condition of my health has made it necessary for my physician to advise me not to take part in any public movement, particularly like the one affecting the Congo, the effect of which could not be otherwise than disturbing to my general mental and physical condition."

THOSE SUDDEN STABS IN THE BACK

Are Twinges That Tell You of Hidden, Dangerous Kidney Troubles.

When the kidneys are sick, sharp, darting pains strike you in the back, loins or sides—pains that almost take your breath away, and often make you cry out in agony.

It is almost impossible to mistake these kidney pains, for they seem to center about the small of the back where the kidneys are located.

And still there are many persons who think backache is merely a muscular trouble—something that is expected to pass away with a little rest, aided by a plaster, or by rubbing with liniment.

There is no plaster nor liniment that will reach the inside cause—sick kidneys. What is needed is a kidney medicine—a kidney stimulant, to start the kidneys working as they should—a healing, soothing tonic, to relieve and cure congestion and inflammation in the kidneys.

Sick kidneys can not get well alone. They need quick help. And if it is not given, the useful work of the kidneys stops. The filtering of the blood is suspended. Poisons circulate freely, with the blood—attack muscles, brain, nerves and vital organs. The kidneys swell and throb and that is what makes those sudden stabs of pain in the back. You won't be rid of the trouble until the kidneys are cured.

There is no other remedy for sick kidneys quite equal to Doan's Kidney Pills. This simple vegetable formula has been in use for 75 years and has never been excelled because it is a remedy for the kidneys only—does not act on the bowels nor on any other organs. It soothes while it stimulates, relieves all congestion and irritation, cures backache, regulates the urine and restores a perfect filtering of the blood.

ST. LOUIS PROOF

Peter H. Meyer, 1117 Missouri av., St. Louis, Mo., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a remedy of merit. I tested them to my entire satisfaction and I am certain that they can be relied upon to cure a lame and aching back. I gave a public statement, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago, in the hope that other kidney sufferers would read it and profit by my experience. I am now glad to confirm all I then said and add that whenever I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills since then, they have been very effective in relieving me of kidney disorders."

CUBS ONLY NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM WITH ADVANTAGE OVER RIVALS AFTER INTERLEAGUE GAMES OF TUESDAY. MULLIN PITCHES GREAT GAME AGAINST THE PIRATES ENABLING DETROIT TO TIE UP THE CHAMPIONSHIP CONTESTS SPORT

JUST MULLIN--HE SAVES THE TIGERS' BACON

Masterly Pitching of Detroit's Star Boxman Ties Up World's Series Contests.

By JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 13.—Because of most excellent pitching by the veteran, George Mullin, the Detroit Tigers were able to reap a victory over Pittsburg in the fourth game to decide the championship of the world, and now the series stands even, each team have taken two games. The team that can win two games first will be the next champions.

Mullin never pitched a stronger game in his life than he did Tuesday afternoon in Detroit, while a wintry wind chilled the throng of baseball fans to the bone. It was a day just to his liking. He had everything he ever possessed and had been specially prepared for the game. The result was the heavy slugging Pirates were as helpless as schoolboys, and Detroit took the game in easy fashion by a score of 5 to 0.

Mullin had all his speed. His curves were beautiful and several times he hooked the ball over the outside corner for the third strike. He fanned Manager Clarke twice, Wagner once, Miller twice, Abstein once and O'Connor once, and those fellows are the heavy hitters of the Pittsburg team. It was his curve ball that did the work in each case. He had almost perfect control and the longer the game lasted the better he seemed to be.

During the entire battle the Pittsburg batters hit the ball beyond the infield but six times. Three of these were caught by the Detroit outfielders and three of them went for base hits. One was a double into the crowd and was hit by little Bobby Byrne.

But Fred Clarke, the Pirate's leader, must be given credit for looking to the future in the way he handled his team in this game. He anticipated his players would have trouble in hitting the ball with Mullin pitching. So he didn't waste the efforts of either one of his two best twirlers, Willis and Camnitz, against this man. He took an outside chance that Lefty Leifield would be lucky, and selected him as the twirler. It was undoubtedly a wise move on the part of Fred Clarke for, as it turned out, his team couldn't score a run on Mr. Mullin so, had Willis or Camnitz been in the box, a shutout game was the only thing that would have given the Pirates a chance to win. As it now stands, he has both Willis and Camnitz fresh and strong for the remaining games, and, if they are both able to deliver a victory, the big series will end and Pittsburg will be the victors.

Hughey Jennings has but an outside chance now to win the title. About the only way it can be done is for Summers to come to the front in his best form and take the Wednesday game. Then Wild Bill Donovan repeat his performance of last Saturday or Mullin come back with another great game for the final. Donovan is not expected to do as well again, especially if the weather stays cold. Either he or Summers will have to get one victory, and Mullin might then turn the trick in the final game.

The best baseball of the series was played in the Tuesday game at Detroit. Pittsburg had a rather bad day in the field that helped Detroit to make so many runs. But the Tigers played a perfect defensive game and hit the ball and ran the bases in their best form.

Detroit Fans See Tigers Win First World's Championship Game

It was the first time that Detroit fans had seen their team win a world's championship game. The one game the Tigers won from the Cubs in the two years they played them was won over in Chicago. The one game they had won from Pittsburg until Tuesday had been in the other team's town. Consequently it was quite deserving that the city of Detroit should go into a spasm of delight. For once the home fans had seen the Tigers perform against the National Leaguers as they were wont to perform against the teams of the American League.

The bad weather spoiled much of the merriment. It was so cold that many of the fans were wearing furs, and all of them were stamping on the floor to warm their toes and blowing on their hands to get the numbness out of their fingers. Under such conditions it would hardly be expected to see a great game of baseball, but Detroit went through the contest without fumbling a ball. They made several mistakes, but it was more because the ball was hit hard and they were fighting an uphill battle, than because it was so cold.

Pitcher Mullin wouldn't permit the Pirates to land squarely on the ball. He had terrific speed. His curve ball was excellent, and he was the master of the situation all the time and he deserves credit for the victory more than any other one man. He never allowed the Pirates to get the start of a rally, and, after he had cut them down two or three times when they had men on the bases, it seemed much of the spirit of the National Leaguers disappeared.

Detroit fans and experts of the game will say it was a great game of baseball. To an outsider who was looking on from an unbiased angle, it was not as good a game as any one of the first three. There was too little hitting on each side and the stars, Wagner and Cobb, got into the limelight but little. But Hughey Jennings was bringing into action all his enthusiasm and best judgment in handling a game of ball, and Fred Clarke was employing all the strategy he knew to get a start on his opponents. But the little things were not seen by the public at large, and the game was wanting in exciting moments.

It looks now as though the series will go to the limit of seven games. The game of Tuesday in Detroit ended the play as far as the players are concerned financially. They get no money from the remaining games. But they must stay and play them out, and the winning team is to be rewarded with the large share of the gate money for the first four battles.

More money will be cut up among the players this year than ever before, and a member of the winning team will be able to take his prize money and buy a house and lot and pay cash for it.

After the Tuesday game in Detroit, the two teams were dined and hauled to a 9 o'clock train. They arrived in Pittsburg early Wednesday morning to play one game and, unless the game is postponed or is a tie, the two teams with umpires, National Commission and newspaper men, will all ride back to Detroit again Wednesday for a game there Thursday.

If each team wins in the next two days, the series will be tied, and the Commission will decide where to play the deciding game. It is quite likely it will be played in Pittsburg, because of the big park.

Mullin hadn't pitched to three men in Tuesday's game before the wise critics saw that he was in form. He retired the Pirates in order in the first and got into a bit of trouble in the second, but pitched himself out of it.

In the last half of the second, the Tigers began their stampede. Delehanty was the first man up and he was hit by a pitched ball. Moriarity dropped a high one back of third base for a single, after giving Delehanty the sign to go, and the hit put "Del." on third. Tom Jones slapped one right into Leifield's hands and Delehanty was foolishly caught between third and home, but he kept the play going until Moriarty reached third and Tom second. Catcher Stanage, who had been put into the game because he can hit left-handed pitchers well, made good right then and there, for he punched the ball to right field for a single and both Moriarity and Jones scored. Mullin forced Stanage at second, but reached the middle bag himself on Miller's wild throw in trying for a double play. Davy Jones ended the inning with a tap to Leifield.

Mullin's Great Pitching Shuts Off Pittsburg's Good Chance

THAT one rally would have been enough to have won the game for Detroit, for Mullin continued strong to the last. Pittsburg had a fine chance in the third inning to tie the score, but Mullin's pitching stopped it and, from then on, the Pirates were tame. With one out, Byrne doubled to the left-field crowd. Leach walked. They are the two fastest men on the team, and Fred Clarke was at bat. The call was three and two on Clarke and, of course, the base runners started at full speed with the pitcher's arm to throw the next ball. Clarke swung at it and missed and Stanage shot to Moriarity. There was a mix at third and Umpire Evans called Bobby safe. Leach had gone to second and Wagner was striding to the plate. It was on this play that Mullin did the best work of the afternoon. Of course, everyone expected he would pass the mighty German purposely. Every pitcher in the National League would have done so, and naturally Wagner expected it himself.

So he was a bit surprised when he had hardly stepped into the batter's box before Mullin shot a fast one right over the plate for the first strike. Then Mullin curved one down over the outside pretty wide, just to make Hans think he was going to walk. He shot another one wide and big Hans raised his eyes to the clouds with careless abandon, though wishing to convey to the public that he only wished Mullin would give him a clout at the ball. Here George hooked one over the plate for a second strike and Wagner looked at him as though wondering at his nerve to throw where he might hit it. Hans couldn't believe yet that Mullin was pitching to him. Another ball went past and Wagner squared away for the final one, with the call three and two. Mullin outwitted him here. He threw a curve ball that bent over the outside edge of the plate, just enough to be called a strike by Umpire Klem. Wagner started to walk to first, never expecting a strike, but he was called out.

In the fourth inning the Tigers put the game on ice. After two were out, Mullin walked. Davy Jones singled and Bush doubled, scoring Mullin. Cobb then slashed a double along the left field foul line and both D. Jones and Bush scored. Crawford ended the inning with a tap to the pitcher; but five runs had been counted all told, and one would have been enough to have won the game.

Tuesday's game was the first one that Wagner had gone without a hit. Little Owen Bush is hitting about as well as anyone, and yet he was expected to be one of the weak ones. Sam Crawford will have to do far above his average from now on if he wishes to gain much glory in the series. So far he has made but three hits, and one of them was scratchy.

Tom Jones is playing a strong game for Detroit though not shining along side of Cobb. Tom made a pretty run and a great slide to score from second on Stanage's single to right field in the second inning. Wilson can throw a ball as hard as any outfielder in the National League, and he shot it home so that it bounded right at the catcher's knees. Tom just slid under it.

Abstein has been the weak member of the Pittsburg team. His errors of Monday got the team in trouble after it had gone out with a big lead. He had another bad day on Tuesday. He seems a very unreliable man to execute a hurried play. With a man tearing into him, he seems unable to handle a thrown ball. Pittsburg put O'Connor in the game to bat for Leifield in the fifth inning. He was baffled by Mullin's curve ball just the same as the rest of them, and let the third strike bend over the plate.

Several trainloads of fans and rooters came over from Detroit during the night. The players, umpires, commission and pressmen had a train to themselves.

WRAY'S COLUMN.

WEDNESDAY morning the American League seemed to be doing very well, in the interleague series, despite the prevailing opinion that it was doomed to sustain a serious setback. Detroit had held its own, Boston had taken care of the New York Giants, and the Cubs, as expected, were in the lead over the White Sox. In actual games played, the two league teams were tied.

The New York Giants broke even with the Pirates on the season's series, each team winning 11 games. But so far the Giants, despite possession of the greatest pitcher in baseball, have been unable to hold the Red Sox even.

Talk of the discrepancy between the two leagues seems to be unfounded. As a matter of fact, all the light that figures can throw upon the situation seems to justify the belief that the American League is gradually picking up in strength, through the acquisition of virile young men, while the National League is going back.

National Is Retrograding.

PITTSBURG is much the same team that last season tied the New York Nationals for second place. This year the two contending clubs have unquestionably lost strength. New York is minus the services of Bresnahan, Donlin and, much of the time, of Cy Seymour—all extremely valuable men from the attack standpoint of the club. The Chicago National club has manifestly retrograded. It is by no means the team which was once without a peer in the baseball world Steinfeldt, Tinker, Chance and all of them have retrograded, particularly in batting. The club has as much baseball sense as formerly and is probably today the strongest team in the National League. But it is far from being the club that twice found Detroit an easy mark.

Much of Pittsburg's reputation of 1909 was made at the expense of hopelessly inferior teams. Fifty-six games were won by Clarke's men from Boston, Brooklyn and St. Louis, out of a total of 110—more than half of the season's success. The National League, in its second division clubs, was for the best part of the year inferior to the American League.

On the showing of the leagues in the various series there is nothing to justify the opinion that the National has a thing on the American.

If Mullin Had Won First.

IN fact, the bad fortune of Mr. Mullin in the opening game of the world's title series, is all that keeps the clubs even. Mullin should have won his first game, just as he did his second essay. He pitched much the better game as compared to that of Adams.

Thomas Jones, whom we were accustomed to consider somewhat in the light of a good old joke when he was with the St. Louis Browns, is holding his own very nicely in the world's series work. He is fielding 1000 and is batting considerably better than Abstein, according to the figures.

One of the most notable discrepancies brought out by the world's series, in contrast to the performance of the clubs during their respective championship seasons, is in base running. Outside of Cobb not a Tiger has stolen a base, whereas the records of the clubs made during the regular season would lead one to believe that speed was the one particular in which the Tigers would shine. They outstripped the Pttsburg club by more than 100 stolen bases, in a total of something under 200. Yet during the four games so far played they have been outclassed by the Smoky City men in work on the bags.

What is the answer? Why, just Gibson—that's all.

That bunch of yellow chrysanthemums handed Wagner Tuesday seems to have lent a touch of local color to the big fellow's work.

The pinch hitters of the world's series have been unfortunate. The average performance has been a strikeout.

Surely the players in this year's championship will have no unfavorable comment to make on the matter of receipts. Their share of the first four games played—which, by the way, is all they are entitled to participate in, under the rules—is over $40,000, or more than $2000 per man. That is a very fat bonus to make, considering that some of the men engaged do not draw more than half again this amount.

Nelson Offered $10,000 to Meet Powell or Frayne

Will Accept Date if it Can Be Arranged for Some Time Next December.

BY JOHN POLLOCK,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Battling Nelson, from his home at Hegeswisch, Ill., last night sent a telegram stating that "Sid" Hester, the fight promoter of San Francisco, had offered him a guarantee of $10,000 for his end to fight Tom Powell or Johnny Frayne for 20 rounds at the Mission A. C. of San Francisco on the night of Nov. 12, but as the time was too short he passed up the offer, but informed Hester that he would be ready to fight a week before Christmas or at a later date.

Willie Lewis, the middleweight fighter, accompanied by his wife and his manager, Dan McKetrick and his wife, sailed today on the steamship Adriatic for Paris, where he is slated to fight 10 battles. Lewis guaranteed $750 for each fight with the privilege of accepting 20 per cent of the gross receipts. Willie will not have such an easy time on this trip knocking out fighters as he did on his two previous trips to that country, for he has to meet several American fighters.

Charley Harvey, who is the representative in this country of the big fight club of Paris, where the American fighters are to battle, announced last night that he is trying to sign up Jimmy Gardner, Mike (Twin) Sullivan, Al Kubiak, Marvin Hart, Tony Ross and Terry Mustaine, the Seattle heavyweight, to make the trip to Paris for battles.

Tommy O'Keefe, who is one of the most promising little fighters turned out in Philadelphia in many years, has been matched to meet Jimmy Dunn, the strong, sturdy lightweight of New Castle, Pa., for 10 rounds at a show to be brought off at Memphis, Tenn., on Monday night.

Sam Fitzpatrick, who is now the manager of Frank Mantell, the crack middleweight of Pawtuxet, R. I., has accepted an offer from one of the fight clubs in Philadelphia for Mantell to meet Billy Papke for six rounds in the early part of next month. Mantell has been fighting in great form in California during the last six months and is a great favorite with the fight fans there.

Owen Moren, the clever English featherweight, is due to arrive in this country from England either today or tomorrow. His manager, Charley Harvey, received a letter from him a few days ago stating that he would surely sail for America on Oct. 6 and that he was anxious to get on another battle with Abe Attell to settle once for all who is the legitimate featherweight champion of the world.

Wilson and Magner Out Again for Local Elevens

Both the St. Louis University and Barnes University football elevens received good news, Tuesday afternoon. Johnny Magner, the star of the Barnes team, reporting for practice at Sportsman's Park, while John Wilson, halfback on the St. Louis U. team, who quit the squad, came out to League Park and practically gave his word to get into the game with Wabash College a week from Saturday.

Next Saturday St. Louis U. is counting on another hard game. The State Normal eleven, from Cape Girardeau, Mo., will be the team that will oppose Warner's charges at League Park. The Cape Girardeau team is coached by Frank Hawkins, the big fullback of the St. Louis U. eleven last year, and Corleaux, who has been for several years a star on the Normal eleven.

Eddie Cochems, coach of the Barnes team, had hopes that Hawkins and Corleaux would join his club and play football, but they seem to like the job of coaching better than playing football.

Wilson of St. Louis U. will not play in Saturday's game against Cape Girardeau. Monnett also has quit the squad. The men were sent through a lengthy practice, Tuesday evening, and Warner is keeping his eyes open to try to see some way in which he can switch his line up about so that he can get a strong pair of ends.

Johnny Magner, who was undoubtedly the best ground gainer for the Barnes eleven in the game with Ferguson A. C., and who later, was doing great work until he had his shoulder dislocated against Shurtleff, was out at Sportsman's Park and his teammates were glad to welcome him. Magner got into a suit but did not do any rough work. He will be carefully nursed along this week by Cochems. The American School of Osteopathy eleven from Kirksville, Mo., plays Barnes Saturday.

In former years Kirksville had one of the strongest teams in the Missouri Valley, Van Doren, the star of the Pittsburg eleven, and other good football players having been members of the Kirksville team. This year it is hardly probable that the eleven will be as strong as in former years. The whole strength of Cochems' team lies in his back field—Watts, Magner and Grimes forming a strong trio. With Wagner in the game there might have been a different result Saturday when Barnes met Haskell. Magner will not be used in the game Saturday unless he is needed, and some other man will in all probability be sent into the back field for the start of the game or until Cochems can get a line on the strength of the "bone doctors."

1909 PILGRIMS IN GREAT FORM

Thomas W. Cahill of St. Louis, secretary of the International Soccer Football League, the officers of which are St. Louis men, also, has returned from the East, where he watched the Pilgrims, the noted English soccer eleven, in action against the best of the Eastern elevens, and Cahill declares that the team is much stronger than the one that the former Pilgrim elevent toured this country and Canada several years ago.

Up to date the Pilgrims have scored 47 goals against 1.

Saturday afternoon the Pilgrims will play the St. Teresas, a local eleven, at Sportsman's Park. Sunday afternoon the Pilgrims will meet a picked team of St. Louis players at Sportsman's Park. After the Sunday game the Pilgrims are scheduled for games throughout Illinois and also in Chicago, after which the Englishmen will return to St. Louis for games a week from Saturday and Sunday.

When the Pilgrims visited St. Louis several years ago the team met the best of the local players, and in spite of the fact that St. Louis is credited with having some of the strongest soccer players in the country, the Englishmen played them off their feet.

The work of the Englishmen was simply marvelous and American followers of the game did not believe such fast and wonderful team work, accurate passing and use of the feet possible as displayed by members of the Pilgrims' Club.

PILGRIMS GET SCARE IN GAME WITH TRENTON

Picked Team of Americans Score on Crack British Association Football Men.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 13.—For the first time since their arrival in this country, the Pilgrims of England, crippled by the absence of T. T. Fitchie, the Woolwich Arsenal star, were scored against in the sixth match of their American tour, contested against the pick of Trenton Association football players.

The former, though they won by two goals to one, had the hardest sort of fight on their hands, and the play of the home team raised the enthusiasm of the large crowd to the highest pitch.

To C. D. Donaghy of the Caledonian eleven, which plays in the Pennsylvania League championship series, belongs the distinction of having scored the first goal against the Pilgrims. This was accomplished after 15 minutes of hard playing. Donaghy took the ball on a pass from J. Plant at outside right and, dodging the English backs successfully, sent the sphere past the redoubtable Lemoine into the Pilgrims' net. The crowd went wild with delight. Fifteen minutes before half time the score was equalled by J. Brown-Sim, inside right for the Pilgrims, who worked the ball up from the center and beat the entire Trenton defense in clever fashion.

STAR TEAMS MAKE GOOD IN TENPIN BOWLING MATCHES

With the exception of the Witter-Christens, all of the "big four" teams of the New City Star Tenpin League won their matches Tuesday night. The Witter-Christens bumped into the Blackwell-Wielandys, one of the new teams only organized this season. The Witter-Christens were not bowling at anything like their best speed and dropped two out of three games.

The Regals and Duffys both put over 2—1 victories, as did the Hyde Parks. The Duffys were bowling at good speed and got a total of 2914 pins, which gave the team two out of three games in their clash with the Fern Glens.

The Regals were also getting the "wood" in hefty bundles as a total of 2734 pins will demonstrate. The Fer-Mil-Lacs opposed the Regals, the Regals taking the first and third games. The Hyde Parks had the Jaegers for victims and the Hyde Parks walked off with the second and third games after losing the first.

Flynn Wins Bitter Battle.

BOSTON, Oct. 13.—Jim Flynn of Boston, heavyweight, last night defeated Tom Calloway, colored, of California, in 12 rounds of the hardest fighting ever seen at the Armory Athletic Association. Flynn was sent to the mat in the third round and twice in the fifth; but came back and punished the Californian so badly that he won the award.

Geddes Plans Boxing Show.

Sam Geddes is planning an amateur boxing tournament to be held at the Young Men's Hebrew Association early in November. Four cases will be put on, open to all local boxers. They are 100 pounds, 120 pounds, 133 pounds and heavyweight. Silver cups will be the prizes awarded.

PAPKE BETS ON STAN KETCHEL AGAINST NEGRO

Middleweight Champion's Ancient Rival Thinks He Has Chance to Beat Champion

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—With the fight for the heavyweight championship of the world only a few days away, both of the principals have begun to temper down their work. While the betting continues at odds of 10 to 4 in favor of the champion, considerable money is being placed on the short end.

One of the latest short-end betters is Billy Papke, the Kewanee fighter, who has faced Ketchel four times in the ring. Papke has written to Louis Blot, his local representative, asking him to place a bet on the chances of his old-time opponent.

The Illinois middleweight expressed the belief that Ketchel will outpoint the champion.

The aspirant for the heavyweight title is extremely confident that it will be added to the two which he already holds and he expressed this belief in the declaration that the coming fight will be a replica of the famous Corbett-Fitzsimmons match at Carson City.

Johnson is afraid of getting stale and for the past two days he has done nothing but routine gymnasium work.

His manager declares that the big fighter is in the pink of condition and he will not allow him to do any more hard work before the match.

Can You Repair Things?

In every household there are always several things that need fixing in some way. But no one seems to know just where to find a man who can do the work properly.

If you are handy with tools and wish to add to your income, just ADVERTISE, telling the kind of work you want and you will soon have a big list of customers.

Often people are so anxious to have the work done that they will bring it right to your shop and call for it again—and these are the people who will pay good prices, too.

Merchants usually dislike to be bothered with repairing things. They want to sell new goods—not fix up old ones. So you will have little competition from that direction.

Help Wanted

MALE

A FEW years spent in the Navy are years of valuable experience; habits of regularity are formed; healthy exercise, regular drills and growing responsibility develop quickness and self-reliance; many large employers prefer men who have had naval training because more capable and efficient. Young men with mechanical knowledge have greater opportunities; they master their trade instead of being mere helpers. Go to a recruiting office and learn about the fine chances in the different branches of the service to save money. The hours of duty, cruises, sports, promotion, etc.; you are not urged to enlist; individuality will be developed, not suppressed in the Navy; ask anyone in the service about it. The Navy hanger in Postoffice and Navy posters will give you an idea of the appearance of a bluejacket. Apply at Navy Recruiting Office, Postoffice Bldg., St. Louis, Mo. (83c)

LOWER PRICES FOR SECURITIES ON WALL STREET

Harriman Pacifics Lead the Downward Movement; London Is Heavy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13, 12:30 p. m.—There was quite a change in the market during the forenoon. From a weak opening prices were advanced from a small fraction to 2 points, Reading and Union Pacific making the greatest gains in the rail stocks, and the U. S. Steels in the industrials.

Smelting was up ¼, Anaconda ⅜, Amalgamated Copper and Consolidated Gas ½ each, and National Lead ⅝.

In the railway list Rock Island common gained ¼, Atchison, B. R. T., C. & O. and Great Northern ¾ each, Canadian Pacific, New York Central, Rock Island preferred and Wabash preferred 1 each.

Pennsylvania advanced 1⅛, Southern Pacific and Northern Pacific, 1¼ each, and St. Paul 1½.

Trading was very lively, considerably more than half a million shares having been sold during the half session.

The weakness that was in evidence at the close of the market on Wall street yesterday was continued at the opening today. With the exceptions of Canadian Pacific, M., K. & T. and New York Central prices were fractionally lower. The Harriman Pacifics were the heaviest stocks in the railway division, Southern losing ¾ and Union ⅞ on their initial transaction. American Car and Foundry occupied a similar position among the industrials, declining ⅞ point.

Anaconda, Steel common and Central Leather lost ¼ each, Smelting and Lead ⅜ each, Amalgamated Copper ½, and Steel preferred ⅝.

In the rails B. & O. and C. & O. declined ⅛ each, Northern Pacific and Rock Island ¼ each, Atchison and Wabash preferred ⅜ each, Erie ½, Great Northern and Reading ⅝ each, Pennsylvania and St. Paul ¾ each. Colorado Fuel and Iron and Republic Iron and Steel declined a small fraction each.

There were very few changes in the market during the first half hour's trading. The tendency of prices seemed to be higher. The Harriman Pacifics and Great Northern advanced ½ each, St. Paul and Reading ⅝ each, and Pennsylvania ⅞. B. & O. and New York Central declined ¼ each. Canadian Pacific, C. & O., Erie, Northern Pacific and Wabash preferred were unchanged.

Southern Pacific and Reading were the leaders in the rails division, while Steel common and Leather led the industrials.

Trading was fairly active in the general list. American securities in London were heavy, being from ⅛ to ½ below parity.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Selling orders for stocks accumulated in brokers' offices over the holiday and their expectation today made the opening stock market weak. Union Pacific was forced down 1¼, Southern Pacific, United States Steel preferred and American Car 1 and Atchison, St. Paul, Great Northern preferred, Reading, Pennsylvania, Amalgamated Copper and American Sugar large fractions. Opening sales of United States were of 7000 shares at 86 and 85¾, compared with 86¼ on Monday. There were subsequent sales at 85.

Supporting orders were distributed for the railroad stocks, but the effect of these was offset for a time by the steady liquidation of many industrials. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading and St. Paul then rallied to Monday's closing prices. United States Steel also made a full recovery, after which the whole market became quiet.

Federal mining yielded 3 points, United States Rubber 2½, General Electric, Iowa Central preferred and American Malting 1⅜, Consolidated Gas, Pressed Steel Car and National Biscuit 1½, American Smelting, Missouri Pacific, Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred, Allis-Chalmers preferred, American Woolen and Westinghouse Electric 1. United Railways and Investment preferred gained 1¼ and Toledo, St. Louis & Western 1.

EAST ST. LOUIS NOTES.

Richard Foster, chief inspector of the street railways of Montreal, Canada, and William Sell of Grayville, Ill., editor of the Grayville Mercury, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Banahan of 1453 Cleveland avenue. Foster knew that Banahan was in East St. Louis and when Mayor Silas Cook visited Montreal in August found out Banahan's address from him.

Nino S. Adams and Miss Lillian Cherry of Roodhouse were married Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. William E. Archibald of the First Presbyterian Church.

Miss Jessie Allen of Greenville, sister of Mrs. L. B. Washburn of 637 North Ninth street, will be married Thursday afternoon at the Washburn home to John Tweed of Spasta, State's Attorney for Randolph County. The Rev. Henry M. Chittenden of Alton will officiate. Miss Allen is a daughter of Mrs. M. V. Allen of Greenville. Her father was Dr. W. A. Allen. Mrs. Washburn will be matron of honor. Miss Allen is a graduate of Forest Park University.

The body of Katherine Seibert, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Seibert of 2920 Renshaw avenue, who died Monday night, was sent to Ashley for burial Wednesday.

John W. Reed, a newspaper man of East St. Louis, was acquitted Tuesday before Judge George A. Crow of Belleville, on the charge of fraudulently marking ballots while serving as election judge during the last municipal campaign in East St. Louis. Judge Crow halted the proceedings when the chief witness for the State failed to make a showing of the case by his testimony.

Even the chronic kicker fails to find fault with the house furnishings that Rhodes-Burford sell on such easy payments. They certainly are the best in town.

IMPROVEMENT IN TRADING ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE

Railways Preferred and Hydraulic Press Brick Com. Decline Fractionally.

There was an improvement in trading at the single session of the local stock exchange Wednesday, issues of the United Railways Co. being the center of interest. Prices were fairly steady. Railway 4s sold at 83⅛ at the beginning of the session, but right at the close $4000 changed hands at 83¼, which is parity. The preferred was slightly weaker, the last 10-share lot selling at 69⅝, which is ¼ lower.

Hydraulic Press Brick common was also heavy, 15 shares selling at 15¾, against the last previous transaction at 16. Bank stocks were inactive and the miscellaneous list dull.

FINANCIAL ITEMS

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—The following table shows the currency movement for August and September the past three years and similar comparisons for the first nine months of each year:

	Shipped.	Received. From East.	Received. F'm C'try.
2 m., 1909	$32,951,261	$5,780,000	$9,803,736
2 m., 1908	31,288,007	3,999,000	10,266,108
2 m., 1907	35,943,490	12,028,000	7,751,040
9 m., 1909	93,528,079	9,170,000	64,317,960
9 m., 1908	90,454,105	7,974,000	70,775,750
9 m., 1907	107,008,810	30,138,400	41,029,380

Currency shipments are now at high-water mark, but October usually is a lighter month than September. Naturally the October receipts from the country are almost a negligible quantity. Last month's shipments were not excessive, but exceeded most official estimates.

Important railroad financing is still in abeyance. A few short-term obligations have come out during the week, the principal ones being $1,600,000 Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific equipment 4½ per cent notes and $2,800,000 Norfolk & Western 4 per cent equipments.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The impression gained from a survey of board transactions in bonds during last week is that the broadening tendency which had its inception about ten days back gained further headway.

MONEY MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The time money market was much firmer. Ninety days' loans on industrials were drawing 5 per cent. There was a better demand for 5 and 6 months at 4½ per cent, but offerings were unchanged. The banks are still shifting their loans, which shows that, although Saturday's statement was a good one under existing circumstances, concerted action is still necessary in order to avoid a stringency in the money market. It is for this reason that rates remain firm.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—The advance in money rates in New York has been reflected here by a hardening of the rates and a disposition among borrowers to supply themselves in advance of their current needs at 5 per cent. General demand otherwise shows little change.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13.—The money market here continues very firm, primarily on account of the increased usages of funds by mercantile and manufacturing interests. Banks generally are husbanding their resources and to this end brokers' loans are being given secondary consideration. Collateral loans are neglected at 5 to 5½ per cent on call and the same rate on time.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—Money in Germany never seems to have been quite so easy as it was at other points, and is tightening here more rapidly than in Paris or London. One object of the movement is probably to check the speculation in German industrial stocks, which is now rather seriously extended. The movement is intended also to protect the Reichsbank's holdings of gold, which have been in some danger of being drawn upon by Russia and Eastern Europe.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Call money was easy throughout the day at 1¼ per cent. Discounts were rather firmer at 3 1-16 per cent, owing to the advance in the German bank rate. It is generally feared that this will necessitate a further advance by the Bank of England.

LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Oct. 13.—Comparative receipts:

	Today.	Week ago.	Year ago.
Cattle	5,500	6,100	6,700
Hogs	9,000	9,500	11,400
Sheep	2,000	1,800	4,000
Horses and mules	150	250	200

NATIVE CATTLE—Included in the moderate total supply of cattle received today were some of the best heavy steers seen here in a long time. They came from Boone County, Mo., feed lots, and were bid up to $8 by the packers, but the shipper held out for more money. Butcher steers generally sold slow and weak today with quality just about an average. Cows and heifers were steady to strong and the movement showed a nice degree of activity. Stock cattle were steady and the same was true of calves. Bulls proved a shade higher and were in good request.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—In the quarantine division the supply today amounted to 3000 head, this being a moderate run. The market proved slow and just about steady. Quality a little better than the average of late, but hardly up to yesterday's standard. Bulk of the supply came from Oklahoma. Some caked, wintered Oklahomas were good enough to bring in the neighborhood of $5. The proportion of Arkansas and Mississippi cattle was a trifle smaller than usual.

HOGS—The market was on a lower basis again, the decline amounting to fully 15c, so that the top of the market was down to $7.75, and the bulk of the desirable hogs sold from $7.25@7.60, making prices now the lowest for several months. The market was inclined to be draggy, as sellers did not like to accept the decline without a fight. Packers were hard to deal with and late in the day purchased good mixed hogs from $7.25@7.50. Pigs and all lights were lower also, but the good corn-fed ones were easier to sell than others. The supply was not as large as yesterday and good heavy hogs were scarce which was one cause of the slowness of the market.

SHEEP—The supply was moderate and the market active, with prices on a steady basis. HORSES—The auction was very satisfactory today. The run of horses was liberal and everything offered found an outlet. Southern horses and extra qualitied big offerings are steady.

MULES—Dealers took hold of the commission supply better today and a good many of the mules in this department changed hands. Prices are quoted about steady with last week.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—London cables show that cane is firm but little offering; Java 12s 4½d. Beet is steady at the advance; October, 11s 6d; November, 11s 3¾d; May, 11s 7½d.

Local refined sugars are quoted on the basis of 5.05c, less 1 per cent for standard granulated.

B. H. Howell, Son & Co. and the American Sugar Refining Co. went firm this morning at 5.05c net, less 1 per cent for cash. These refineries have been taking business at 4.95c.

COFFEE MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Deliveries of coffee at New York last week were 96,348 bags, and at New Orleans 34,048 bags, a total of 130,396 bags. This compares with 136,[illegible] bags, against 156,[illegible] the previous week and 138,761 last year.

BULL SENTIMENT GENERAL IN WHEAT

Aggressive Buying and Short Covering Raise Prices to Largely Higher Levels.

Bullish sentiment prevailed to a general extent in the local wheat market Wednesday. To the demand resulting from this was added a liberal volume of short covering and this combined buying power met few offerings. Prices steadily advanced and in the latter part of the session were supported at largely higher levels.

The weather in all directions is clear and cold. No moisture has been reported in the Southwest, where it would do good, and some apprehension is being felt over the possible danger the excessively low temperatures may do in the winter wheat belt. This was one of the early foundations of the bull feeling, and to it was added the sharp advance in Liverpool during our holiday and the firm cables again this morning. Initial quotations were ⅜c to ⅝c higher than Monday, with a good buying movement in progress at the opening.

Receipts in the Northwest were smaller. While stocks at Minneapolis continued to show increases, the movement of spring wheat does not nearly come up to the record volume. Every one seemed to be after cash wheat. A strong demand existed not only in the local market, but was general all over the country.

Premiums were very strong. The pronounced strength of the cash article, supplemented by a good business in flour and signs of a developing export demand, figured as one of the most powerful incentives to buy.

Cables were sharply higher early in the day. This resulted from strength in the cash stuff at Winnipeg, higher La Plata offerings and unfavorable reports regarding the new crop in the latter place. Most of the foreign advance was lost later on the expected big increase in the European visible, continued heavy offerings from Russia and other factors. Liverpool still closed unchanged to ⅛d higher, however, and there was a steady tone on the Continent.

Prices rapidly moved upward for some time after the start. Liberal advances were reached, after which values were well supported at the gains during the rest of the forenoon.

December wheat opened ⅜c higher at $1.06 and advanced to $1.06⅞. May wheat opened ⅝c higher at $1.07¼ and advanced to $1.07⅝. July wheat sold ⅜c higher at 98½c.

CREECY BUYS A FARM BUT WILL NOT LIVE ON IT

He Chooses $10,000 Place in Pulaski County on the Gasconade River.

NOT TO QUIT FORCE

Bought 384 Acres as Investment and Expects to Make a Good Profit.

Chief of Police Creecy has bought that farm.

It is in Pulaski County, near Waynesville, Mo., and the Gasconade River, where there is always good fishing, runs right through the middle of it. He paid $10,000 for it and says it was cheap at the price. But now that he has the farm ,he vigorously denies that he is going to live on it.

For more than a year Chief Creecy has been making flying visits to the country and each time he went away rumors floated back to St. Louis that he was on a still hunt for a farm.

Talk of His Retirement.

These farm-hunting trips of the Chief led to much speculation as to the likelihood that he was preparing to retire from police service and devote his time to agricultural pursuits. When he wasn't looking at farms he was busy explaining that he had no intention of retiring.

He emphatically reiterated this Wednesday after news of his purchase was received by the Post-Dispatch.

"Yes, I have bought a farm," he said, "but I have no intention of becoming a farmer. I just found a good bargain and made the purchase for investment.

"There are 384 acres, of which 200 are under cultivation. Corn is grown on 170 acres and hay on 30 acres. I expect that my annual profit from the farm will be at least $1000.

"I don't really know that I will hold the property. I think it will appreciate greatly in value in the next few years, and if I can make a good profit on the deal I will sell it.'

BIGAMIST BARON ARRESTED; HAS MARRIED SEVEN WOMEN

Was About to Wed the Eighth One; Two of His Wives Step In.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Arthur Zimmerman, who was arrested in Hamilton, Ontario, Sunday, on a charge of bigamy made in Brooklyn, is Baron Arthur Zimmerman von Lichtenstein, 50 years old. According to his admissions in letters to Brooklyn wives he had committed bigamy six times and was about to marry an eighth wife when he was locked up.

Two of his Brooklyn wives united to bring Zimmerman to justice but failed at first as the District Attorney and police decided that the expense of his extradition would be too great. Later the Baron wrote to one of these wives that he was to marry again last Sunday night, and the two went again to the District Attorney's office and asked:

"Do you dare to let this man commit another crime on the grounds that New York City is too poor to prosecute him in a foreign country?"

District Attorney Clarke of Brooklyn then decided to act and the Baron was arrested as he was about to leave Hamilton for Niagara Falls for his wedding.

The latest wife of the Baron, who is known to all his acquaintances in this country as plain Mr. Zimmerman, is Mrs. Louisa Hahl, a dressmaker, who had been a widow nine years.

PRESIDENT SPEEDS THROUGH ARIZONA ON WAY BACK EAST

YUMA, Ariz., Oct. 13.—President Taft today is speeding across the sands of Arizona, well started on his journey back from the Pacific to the Atlantic Coast. He crossed the Colorado River at Yuma shortly after 6 o'clock this morning and proceeded with only a pause for Maricopa, the railroad junction town where the train left the main line, and continued northward toward Phoenix and other principal cities of the Territory.

The President was met at Yuma by Gov. Sloan of Arizona, accompanied by the other territorial officials and prominent citizens.

The formal ceremonies of welcome by the Governor occurred at Phoenix, which was reached shortly after noon. Here the President delivered his principal address in Arizona.

The special is scheduled to reach Prescott at 6:20, where a stop of an hour will be made and the President will deliver a public address.

The President continues in excellent health and spirits. The arduous days spent in complying with the demands of the people of the score or more of cities he has visited told but little upon him.

The cutting quality is the first inquiry in the selection of this class of goods, and ours will be found superior in this respect. We do not handle goods made for show but for use.

Naturally you may expect to find in connection with this line all of the hundreds of cosmetic articles, a few of which may be found in ordinary drug stores; but our assortment will be found far greater than are offered by any drug or department store, save ours.

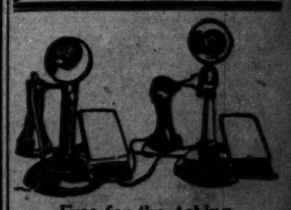

The Gillette Razor gives universal satisfaction. The cheaper substitutes do not. We are selling dozens of them every day.
